Rural China

IMPERIAL CONTROL IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY

Kung-chuan Hsiao. "On the must lists of students of politics, social organization, anthropology, and world affairs. It is a minutely documented account of the techniques and results of Oriental Despotism . . . a well-balanced, comprehensive picture of rural society caught up in a process of decay and tortured stagnation."—American Political Science Review. "Destined to be consulted as a basic reference for many years to come."—Asian Student. "A triumph rare in historical scholarship."—Journal of Southeast Asian History. 797 pages. Cloth, $10.00. WPRA-3, $4.95

The Chinese Gentry

STUDIES ON THEIR ROLE IN NINETEENTH-CENTURY CHINESE SOCIETY

Chung-li Chang; Introduction by Franz Michael. ". . . The principal contribution of this book lies in its detailed analysis of the working of the civil service system. . . . No other work in English sets forth with such particularity the merits and abuses of this system, nor is there another book that defines so clearly the terminology created by the Chinese to describe the system in all its aspects. To support his conclusions, the author has made wide use of hitherto little-used Chinese documents."—United Service Quarterly. 272 pages. Cloth, $7.50. WPRA-4, $2.95

Soviet and Chinese Communism

SIMILARITIES AND DIFFERENCES

Edited with an Introduction by Donald W. Treadgold. Twenty of the Western world's most distinguished authorities on the Soviet Union and Communist China probe the ideological, political, economic, and social aspects of the two systems. What the authors have to say on a variety of key issues will be of great importance to all who wish to gain insight into the Communist movement since World War II. 528 pages. Cloth, $10.00. WPRA-2, $3.95

The Development of the USSR

AN EXCHANGE OF VIEWS

Edited with an Introduction by Donald W. Treadgold. "The reader, whatever his specialty, will profit from the wide range of contributions in history, political science, economics, and literature."—Slavic and East European Journal. 474 pages. Cloth, $7.50. WPRA-1, $3.95

A look inside China's "smoke-filled rooms"

Newspapers report on Chinese power struggles at the top—about Mao, Chou, and Lin Piao jockeying for position. But how is China ruled? The bureaucratic machinery needed to translate central government decisions into grass-roots action staggers the imagination. And until now, imagination has been nearly all that otherwise well-informed Americans could rely on when the subject was discussed.

Now, A. Doak Barnett, born in China, a resident there for many years, and a close student of Chinese politics, provides a detailed, analytical picture of the Communist Party and government machinery at ministry, county, and village levels in China. Based primarily on first-hand interviews with Chinese officials who ranged from the equivalent of "club-house politicians" to important functionaries, the book describes the tremendous ball of red tape in Peking and follows its unwinding around 700,000,000 people in every corner of China. This is an unprecedented account of the day-to-day operation of the most gigantic—and important—bureaucratic structure in the world.

PA CHIN AND HIS WRITINGS

Chinese Youth Between the Two Revolutions

By OLGA LANG

Pa Chin was one of China's most popular writers between 1930 and 1949, and was in many respects typical of the radical intellectuals in the first half of the century. This study focuses on the content of his novels and short stories, and makes a substantial contribution to our understanding of modern China. Harvard East Asian Series, 28. $7.95

THEATRE IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

By JAMES R. BRANDON

In this first general survey of traditional and modern theatre in the eight countries of Southeast Asia, the author discusses the cultural background of modern theatre, elements and methods of production, and the training of performers. Enhancing his text with many lively photographs, he examines the theatre as a social institution and as an instrument of communication. $12.50

AN INTRODUCTION TO SUNG POETRY

By KŌJIRŌ YOSHIKAWA

Translated by BURTON WATSON

Providing a needed reassessment, this work, by one of the world's outstanding scholars in the field, consists of a general introduction outlining the principal characteristics of Sung poetry, followed by discussions of the most important poets of the Sung period. Harvard-Yenching Institute Monograph Series, 17. $7.00

SONG DYNASTY MUSICAL SOURCES AND THEIR INTERPRETATION

By RULAN CHAO PIAN

A STUDY OF THE CH'IN DYNASTY AS SEEN IN THE LIFE OF LI SSÜ

By DERK BODDE, University of Pennsylvania. This book traces the development of the social, political, and economic movements inaugurated under the Ch'in dynasty (255-206 B.C.) and connects these movements with the life of the man who was the outstanding statesman of the time. This account of the struggles endured by ancient China will appeal to scholars and general readers alike. Index and bibliography. $8.00

Japanese Rural Society

By TADASHI FUKUTAKE, Tokyo University. The author is concerned with the subtle social changes which accompanied the growth of manufacturing and the rise in the efficiency of agriculture. Professor Fukutake has been living in villages for twenty-five years, chiefly in Japan, but also in China, India, Europe, and the United States, and brings vast personal knowledge to the analysis of the variety of structural forms and cultural patterns to be found in Japanese villages. $9.60

The Political System of the Jats of Northern India

By M. C. PRADHAN, Karnatak University, Dharwar. In this study of the traditional political system of a peasant society of northern India, the author explores the economics, kinship, religion, and political structure at the village level. He reveals inter-caste relations, the working of the newly instituted political systems of the gram panchayat (village committee) and the adalat panchayat (justice committee) and the process of social change in the villages. $6.65

The Economic Development of Malaya

By LIM CHONG YAH, Lecturer in Economics, University of Malaya. This book is a comprehensive study of economics in Malaya, based on historical statistical facts. The period under consideration covers some ninety years, from about 1874, the date of the Pangkor Engagement, to 1963, the date of the Malaysian Agreement, the period of Malaya's most rapid development and change. A thorough analysis is made of the crops and commodities produced, and tin and rubber, the staple products of Malaya, receive particularly detailed treatment. Diagrams; maps. $12.00

Fifteenth Century Illustrated Chinese Primer

HSIN-PIEN TUI-HSIANG SZU-YEN

Translated and edited by L. CARRINGTON GOODRICH, Research Director, Ming Biographical History Project. The Hsin-pien tui-hsiang szu-yen, though only eight leaves in all, is possibly the oldest illustrated reader in existence. This translation contains 308 drawings to illustrate 388 characters, given according to modern Pekingese in the Wade-Giles romanization, followed by translations and explanations. The volume reflects in simple form the material culture of the time, together with certain terms no longer in use. $3.00

Narrative of a Residence in New Zealand

By AUGUSTUS EARLE (1793-1830), edited by E. H. McCORMICK. This is the only complete version of artist Augustus Earle's memoir since its original publication in 1832. It includes an introduction based on missionary records and other manuscript sources. The book is fully illustrated with monochrome and color prints of Earle's own paintings, many here reproduced for the first time. $8.80

Tibet: A Political History

by Tsepon W. D. Shakabpa

In 1959 the Dalai Lama of Tibet, disguised as a peasant and accompanied by a small band of supporters, escaped the threatening Chinese Communist regime and took refuge in India. Among those living in exile is W. D. Shakabpa, former Minister of Finance, who has now written the first history of Tibet by a Tibetan to be published in English. $10.00

The Indus Rivers

A Study of the Effects of Partition

by Aloys A. Michel

This study analyzes the profound effects which the Partition of the Punjab has had on the regional economy of the subcontinental portion of the Indus Basin. Mr. Michel assesses projects under way in India and West Pakistan since Partition, and discusses the engineering techniques being employed in the attempt to restore the efficiency of the old, integrated irrigation system. $12.50

The Origins of Malay Nationalism

by William R. Roff

The slow growth of communal, ethnic, and national feeling among the peninsular Malays during the first four decades of this century, and the expression of this feeling in voluntary associations of a potentially nationalist nature are the subjects of Mr. Roff's study. He investigates three Malay elite groups that emerged to challenge the traditional status quo in the interests of a distinctly Malay nationalism. $8.50

THE NEW FACE OF BUDDHA

The Fusion of Religion and Politics
in Contemporary Buddhism

By JERROLD SCHECTER
Chief of Time-Life's Tokyo Bureau

The author analyzes Buddhism's "current manifestations as a political force against Westernism. It is good background journalism and deserves a wide audience . . . Mr. Schecter provides a lively discussion of Buddhist life in several Southeast Asian countries."—N. Y. Times Book Review

"Having traveled throughout Cambodia, Thailand, Burma, Ceylon, Vietnam and Japan, the author is able to draw an up-to-the-minute picture of an Asian Buddhist revival in terms of youth, nationalism and resentment over past historic indignities. His analysis of the tough, politically astute Vietnamese Buddhists is particularly appropriate and balanced."—Library Journal
