Marshal Lyautey's Administration of Morocco, 1912-1925

Alan Scham

Filling a gap in North African and French colonial history, this study illuminates the complexities and rationale of colonial rule. The volume begins with a biographical sketch of Marshal Hubert Lyautey, concentrating on his term as Resident General in the Sherifian Empire, a period that saw the establishment of the key institutions of the Protectorate. Later chapters describe the organizational changes that the French affected in four areas: government, primary administration, education, and the judiciary.

Custom and Government in the Lower Congo

Wyatt MacGaffey

The village of Mbanza Manteke and its BaKongo people are the subject of this detailed picture of contemporary life in a Congolese village. In an effort to understand the changes in social structures first under colonial rule and then under the independent regime, Mr. MacGaffey focuses on principal social processes—weddings, funerals, and political competition over land ownership. Particular attention is paid to the relation between local authority and town-based bureaucratic government.

Tradition and Transition in East Africa

Studies of the Tribal Factor in the Modern Era

Edited by P. H. Gulliver

The essays presented here examine aspects of the nature and problems posed by the tribal factor in East Africa and of the interplay of factors and forces, institutions and values, interest and emotions, realities and fantasy, deriving from "tradition" and from the continued "transition" involved in modernization. One group of contributors examines the significance of the tribal factor in certain general contexts and discusses some of the particular backgrounds to contemporary transition in East Africa; their essays concern politics, economic development, language, law, and education. Other contributors consider the grassroots basis and development of the concept of tribe and its operation in social life in certain rural areas.

The Political Economy of Change

Warren F. Ilchman and Norman Thomas Uphoff

In this attempt to provide a social science superior to present political science and more relevant than economics for the task of analyzing public policy, especially in relation to developing countries, the authors explore the functions and characteristics of political resources, political exchange, and political productivity. The need for such a social science is illustrated by the case of General Gowon of Nigeria upon taking office in August 1966. The authors' perspective permits them to compare the efficiency of various public policies and to estimate their costs. They believe that they can answer "How much is enough?" when the decision to invest in political and administrative infra-structure is made, and can incorporate the requirements of political optimality and feasibility into the same system that considers economic optimality and feasibility. For the social scientist in search of a scheme that can deal with any regime, this volume should prove stimulating and refreshing.

Catalogue SYSTÉMATIQUE de la SECTION AFRIQUE
(CLASSIFIED Catalog of the AFRICA SECTION)

Bibliothèque du Musée de l'Homme, Paris

Works in the Systematic Catalog are classified topographically, in departments, in the order of their systematic numbers. The Africa Section of the Systematic Catalog contains approximately 24,000 index cards, representing approximately 8,000 works and pamphlets. One section at the beginning groups all the populations, since the ethnic groups rarely correspond to the national political boundaries.

Estimated 24,000 cards reproduced in 2 volumes

Price: $110.00

Catalog of AFRICAN GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS and AFRICAN AREA Index

Second Edition, Revised and Enlarged

Boston University Libraries

Originally published in 1960, this catalog and index have undergone complete revision and have doubled in size since the first edition. The catalog contains entries for 4,100 monographs and serials covering all areas of Africa. Book materials are recorded in the index, in which some 3,500 entries identify topic, tribal group, and place, plus many tribal names and their variants.

4,300 Main Catalog cards and approximately 3,500 Index entries reproduced in 1 volume

Price: $30.00

Stanley's Despatches to the NEW YORK HERALD, 1871-1872, 1874-1877

Norman R. Bennett, editor

Unavailable for decades, the original African despatches of the controversial explorer-journalist have been gathered into one volume for the first time.

"Norman Bennett's introduction and copious notes greatly add to the value of this work for the academic historian—his knowledge of the background of European activities in East Africa in the mid-nineteenth century is pretty well unrivalled."—R. C. Bridges, University of Aberdeen

"Professor Bennett's introduction offers a valuable commentary on Stanley's life."—West Africa

Leadership in Eastern Africa Six Political Biographies

Norman R. Bennett, editor

Described as a "portrait of the nineteenth century—as manifested in East Africa," the book gives essential materials for regional histories and demonstrates political processes.

"A very good attempt to maintain a relationship between biography and history. . . . The real value of the book lies in its wide geographical scope and the comparative political and social history."—NADA

Contents: Introduction by Daniel F. McCall; "Menilek II," Harold G. Marcus; "The Poor Man of God—Muhammad Abdullah Hassan," Robert L. Hess; "Sheikh Mbaruk bin Rashid bin Salim el Mazrui," T. H. R. Cashmore; "Mwinyi Kheri," Norman R. Bennett; "Gungunhana," Douglas L. Wheeler; "Lobengula," Per Hassing.

Yankee Traders, Old Coasters, and African Middlemen

A History of American Legitimate Trade with West Africa in the Nineteenth Century

George E. Brooks, Jr.

This new contribution to African economic history describes the symbiotic relations between legitimate and slave traders and details the effects of European wars, politics, and mercantilist policies on the African-American trade.

Through economic studies like Brooks' it may be found that the influences of legitimate trade on the people of Africa's West Coast were greater and even more enduring than the consequences of the well documented, and more dramatic, slave trade.

"This book throws considerable new light on both American and African maritime history."—Robert G. Albion, Harvard University

A Journal of Race and Group Relations

The Institute of Race Relations, 36 Jermyn Street, London, S.W.1

The journal provides contributions to the study of race relations from a wide range of academic and applied disciplines. Some emphasis is placed on articles contributing to the debate on policy and structural change. As well as articles, the numbers include 'Quarterly Forum'—which carries discussion on methods, and reports on organizations, conferences, and programmes—Correspondence, Book Reviews and Books Received. One number in each volume will be devoted to a special issue: the April 1971 number will be on 'Race and Pluralism'.
