RAINFOREST RELATIONS

Gender and Resource Use Among the Mende of Gola, Sierra Leone
Melissa Leach

With environmental change and conservation in West Africa's tropical rainforests becoming topics of increasing political and academic attention, this new book adds a fresh set of perspectives to the debate - those of the forest-dwellers themselves. It shows how the Mende communities, whose livelihoods depend upon forest-related agriculture, and hunting and gathering, view and consider the future of forest resources.

AFRICAN PHILOSOPHY IN SEARCH OF IDENTITY

D.A. Masolo

Is there an African philosophy? The renowned Kenyan philosopher, D.A. Masolo, surveys the themes and debates and participates in the last fifty years of African thought, and concludes that there is a distinctively African way of dealing with reality, problems, and methods of acquiring meaningful knowledge.

Covering French and English-speaking traditions he shows how African thought stems from particular cultural circumstances and embraces a wide range of different perspectives.
