TRAINING IN PSYCHO-ANALYSIS

Applications are invited for the Training in Psycho-Analysis at the Institute of Psycho-Analysis in London. Successful applicants have the opportunity to further their knowledge and understanding of conscious and unconscious mental processes, to study the way these contribute to normal and abnormal psychological development and to develop their clinical skills in intensive work with patients.

This training involves theoretical and clinical lectures and seminars, the psychoanalysis of patients under supervision, and the candidate's personal experience of psychoanalysis with a Training Analyst of The Institute of Psycho-Analysis. The course is flexible and compatible with employment in the N.H.S. Lectures and seminars are held in the evenings, and the training usually extends over a period of four years.

Financial assistance is available for students once they have been accepted and fully registered for the training. Applications can be made at any time, and preliminary inquiries should in the first instance be addressed to:

*The Training Secretary
The Institute of Psycho-Analysis
63 New Cavendish Street
London W1M 7RD
Tel: 071 580 4952*

Merseyside Psychotherapy Institute in collaboration with the University Department of Clinical Psychology and Psychiatry,

Instructions to Authors

The British Journal of Psychiatry is published monthly by the Royal College of Psychiatrists. The BJP publishes original work in all fields of psychiatry. All communications, including manuscripts for publication, should be sent to The Editor, The British Journal of Psychiatry, 17 Belgrave Square, London SW1X 8PG.

All published articles are peer reviewed. A decision will be made on a paper within three months of its receipt.

Contributions are accepted for publication on the condition that their substance has not been published or submitted for publication elsewhere. The BJP does not hold itself responsible for statements made by contributors. Unless so stated, material in the BJP does not necessarily reflect the views of the Editor or the Royal College of Psychiatrists.

Published articles become the property of the BJP and can be published elsewhere, in full or in part, only with the Editor's written permission.

Manuscripts accepted for publication are copy-edited to improve readability and to ensure conformity with house style.

We regret that manuscripts and figures unsuitable for publication will not normally be returned.

Manuscripts

Two high-quality copies should be submitted and authors should keep one copy for reference. Articles should ideally be 3000–5000 words long, must be typed on one side of the paper only, double-spaced throughout (including tables and references) and with wide margins (at least 4 cm); all the pages, including the title page, must be numbered.

Title and authors

The title should be brief and relevant. If necessary, a subtitle may be used to amplify the main title.

One of the authors should be designated to receive correspondence and proofs, and the appropriate address indicated. This author must take responsibility for keeping all other named authors informed of the paper's progress. More than five authors may be credited to a paper only at the Editor's discretion.

If authors wish to have their work peer reviewed anonymously, they must submit their work without personal identification; names and addresses of all authors should be given in the covering letter. Otherwise, the names of the authors should appear on the title page in the form that is wished for publication, and the names, degrees, affiliations and full addresses at the time the work described in the paper was carried out given at the end of the paper.

Summaries

A structured summary should be given at the beginning of the article, incorporating the following headings: Background; Method; Results; Conclusions. These should outline the questions investigated, the design, essential findings, and main conclusion of the study. This should be up to 150 words long. Review articles do require summaries, although comments, annotations, lectures and points of view do not.

References

References should be listed alphabetically at the end of the paper, the titles of journals being given in full. Titles of books and journals are printed in italic and should therefore be underlined on the typescript. Reference lists not in BJP style will be returned to the author for correction.

Authors should check that the text references and list are in agreement as regards dates and spelling of names. The text reference should be in the form '(Smith, 1971)' or 'Smith (1971) showed that . . .'. The reference list should follow the style example below (note that et al is used after three authors have been listed for a work by four or more).

- ALDERSON, M. R. (1974) Self poisoning: what is the future? Lancet, i, 104–113.
- AMERICAN PSYCHIATRIC ASSOCIATION (1980) Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (3rd edn) (DSM-III). Washington, DC: APA.
- AYLARD, P. R., GOODING, J. H., MCKENNA, P. S., et al (1987) A validation study of three anxiety and depression self assessment scales. Psychosomatic Research, 1, 261–268.
- DE ROUGE-MONT, D. (1950) Passion and Society (trans. M. Belgium). London: Faber and Faber.
- FISHER, M. (1990) Personal Love. London: Duckworth.
- FLYNN, C. H. (1987) Defoe's idea of conduct: ideological fictions and fictional reality. In Ideology of Conduct (eds N. Armstrong & L. Tenenhouse), pp. 73–95. London: Methuen.
- FREUD, S. (1955) Some neurotic mechanisms in jealousy, paranoia and homosexuality. In Standard Edition, Vol. 18 (ed. & trans. J. Strachey), pp. 221–232. London: Hogarth Press.
- JONES, E. (1937) Jealousy. In Papers on Psychoanalysis, pp. 469–485. London: Baillière, Tindall.
- MULLEN, P. E. (1990a) Morbid jealousy and the delusion of infidelity. In Principles and Practice of Forensic Psychiatry (eds R. Bluglass & P. Bowden), pp. 823–834. London: Churchill Livingstone.
- (1990b) A phenomenology of jealousy. Australian and New Zealand Journal of Psychiatry, 24, 17–28.
- VAUKHONEN, K. (1968) On the pathogenesis of morbid jealousy. Acta Psychiatrica Scandinavica (suppl. 202).

Personal communications need written authorisation; they should not be included in the reference list. No other citation of unpublished work, including unpublished conference presentations, is permissible.

INSTRUCTIONS TO AUTHORS

Short papers

The maximum number of words is 2000. The structured summary should not exceed 100 words. There may be either one table or one figure. The maximum number of references allowed is 10.

Tables

Each table should be submitted on a separate sheet. They should be numbered and have an appropriate heading. The tables should be mentioned in the text but must not duplicate information in the text. The heading of the table, together with any footnotes or comments, should be self-explanatory. The desired position of the table in the manuscript should be indicated. Do not tabulate lists, which should be incorporated into the text, where, if necessary, they may be displayed.

Authors must obtain permission if they intend to use tables from other sources, and due acknowledgement should be made in a footnote to the table.

Figures

Figures should be individual glossy photographs, or other camera-ready prints, or good-quality output from a computer, not photocopies, clearly numbered and captioned below. Avoid cluttering figures with explanatory text which is better incorporated succinctly in the caption. Lettering should be parallel to the axes. Units must be clearly indicated and should be presented in the form quantity:unit (note: 'litre' should be spelled out in full unless modified to ml, dl, etc.).

Authors must obtain permission if they intend to use figures from other sources, and due acknowledgement should be made in the legend.

Colour figures may be reproduced if authors are able to cover the costs.

Statistics

Not all papers require statistical analysis. Case histories and studies with very small numbers are examples. In larger studies where statistical analyses are included it is necessary to describe these in language that is comprehensible to the numerate psychiatrist as well as the medical statistician. Particular attention should be paid to clear description of study designs and objectives, and evidence that the statistical procedures used were both appropriate for the hypotheses tested and correctly interpreted. The statistical analyses should be planned before data are collected and full explanations given for any post-hoc analyses carried out. The value of test statistics used (e.g. χ^2 , t, F-ratio) should be given as well as their significance levels so that their derivation can be understood. Standard deviations and errors should not be reported as \pm , but should be specified and referred to in parentheses.

Trends should not be reported unless they have been supported by appropriate statistical analyses for trends.

The use of percentages to report results from small samples is discouraged, other than where this facilitates comparisons. The number of decimal places to which numbers are given should reflect the accuracy of the determination, and estimates of error should be given for statistics.

A brief and useful introduction to the place of confidence intervals is given by Gardner & Altman (1990, British Journal of Psychiatry, 156, 472–474). Use of these is encouraged but not mandatory.

Authors are encouraged to include estimates of statistical power where appropriate. To report a difference as being statistically significant is generally insufficient, and comment should be made about the magnitude and direction of change.

General

All abbreviations must be spelt out on first usage.

The generic names of drugs should be used, and the source of any compounds not yet available on general prescription should be indicated.

Generally, SI units should be used; where they are not, the SI equivalent should be included in parentheses. Units should not use indices: i.e. report g/ml, not gml^{-1} .

The use of notes separate to the text should be avoided, whether they be footnotes or a separate section at the end of a paper. A footnote to the first page may, however, be included to give some general information concerning the paper.

If an individual patient is described, his or her consent should be obtained. The patient should read the report before submission. Where the patient is not able to give informed consent, it should be obtained from an authorised person. Personal details and dates should be kept to a minimum. If necessary, personal details should be changed to disguise the patient if this is consistent with accurate reporting of the clinical data, and a note should be added to the paper to this effect.

Proofs

A proof will be sent to the corresponding author of an article. Offprints, which are prepared at the same time as the BJP, should be ordered when the proof is returned to the Editor. Offprints are despatched up to six weeks after publication. The form assigning copyright to the College must be returned with the proof.

Letters to the Editor

Letters should not exceed 350 words. They will be edited for clarity and conformity with BJP style and may be shortened. There should be no more than five references. Proofs will not be sent to authors.
