MANUFACTURING
MIRACLES

Paths of Industrialization in Latin America and
East Asia

Edited by GARY GEREFFI and

MANUFACTURING
MIRACLES

Few observers of Mexico and Brazil in the 1930s, or South Korea and Taiwan in the mid-1950s, would have predicted that these nations would become economic "miracles" several decades later. These newly industrializing countries (NICs) challenge much of our conventional wisdom about economic development and raise important questions about international competitiveness and export success in manufacturing industries. In this volume economists, sociologists, and political scientists seek to explain the growth of the NICs in Latin America and East Asia and to reformulate contemporary development theory through an in-depth analysis of these two dynamic regions.

In July 1980, two weeks before the Gdansk shipyard strikes, Roman Laba arrived in Poland. He stayed there for almost two and a half years before he was arrested and expelled from the country for "activities noxious to the interests of the Polish state." Laba had set himself the ambitious task of documenting the history of Poland's free trade union.

The book uses this hard-earned first-hand information to challenge the commonly accepted view of the Polish intelligentsia as the driving force behind Solidarity and to demonstrate that the roots of the movement go back a decade earlier than the 1980 strikes.

QUICKSILVER CAPITAL How the Rapid Movement of Wealth Has Changed the World

Richard McKenzie, University of Mississippi and Dwight Lee,
University of Chicago

“McKenzie and Lee show that it was technological change that doomed socialism. It is an argument of such manifest cogency that it will instantly be adopted by its opponents, who will claim to have known it all along.”

TRANSFORMING THE SOVIET SYSTEM

George Soros

During the early 1970s, Hungarian-born financier George Soros emerged as one of the world's foremost money managers. Recently he has turned his skills to helping transform the societies of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. In this incisive work, Soros recounts his efforts to identify and fund the radical movements which caused the downfall of those communist regimes. In the process, he calls for a restructuring of the Soviet economy around a hard currency, which would give the various republics a real basis on which to trade and establish their autonomy within a more open system.

THE WINNER'S CURSE Paradoxes and Anomalies of Economic Life

Richard H. Thaler, Cornell University

In the past several decades economics has had a powerful and far-reaching effect on many of our institutions. Yet until very recently the basic idea of economic analysis—that people and organizations act rationally to maximize their preferences and that markets have evolved to reward this rationality—has gone unquestioned. In this profound and provocative work, Richard Thaler sheds revealing light on many of the anomalies which abound even in the most exacting economic transaction.

THE MORAL DIMENSION Toward a New Economics

Amitai Etzioni,
George Washington University

“This is a book I will keep close to my desk and refer to often. It is packed with ideas eloquently expressed. If something new is to happen in economics (i.e., the emergence of a more behavioral, social, psychological economics), this book will rank high among those providing the necessary momentum for change.”
