THE ANGLO-AMERICAN CONFERENCE OF HISTORIANS, at the University of London's Institute of Historical Research,
1-3 July 1993

Theme for 1993: GENDER IN HISTORY

The Anglo-American Conference is managed by the Institute of Historical Research in consultation with a committee of scholars from both sides of the Atlantic. Its tradition, however, has been multi-national ever since the informal meetings of historians in the University of London in 1921, which gave rise to the first Conference. Since then, the Conference has met almost annually except for a break during the Second World War. Both the subject matter and the personnel of the meetings draw on historical scholarship from all over the world and from many different fields and periods of history. If you wish to receive details about the 1993 Conference, write to the Academic Secretary, the Institute of Historical Research, University of London, Senate House, London WC1E 7HU, UK.

BRITAIN AND THE MASS MEDIA IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY, at the London School of Economics and Political Science
12-16 July 1993

This will be the sixth annual conference of the Institute of Contemporary British History. For full details write to the Institute at 34 Tavistock Square, London WC1H 9EZ, UK (telephone 071-387 2331).

RACE, ETHNICITY AND POLITICS IN CONTEMPORARY EUROPE
at Loughborough University
24-26 September 1993

The European Research Centre is to hold an international conference structured along six main axes: theory and methodology; single country and comparative studies; multilateral policy-making; lessons from the past; political participation of ethnic minorities; and gender, race and class. Selected papers will be published by the Edward Elgar Press. To propose a paper or obtain further details, please contact Professor Alex Hargreaves or Dr Jeremy Leaman, Department of European Studies, Loughborough University, Loughborough, LE11 3TU, UK (telephone 0509 222979 or 0509 222995; fax 0509 269395).
