VATICAN DIPLOMACY

By ROBERT A. GRAHAM, S.J.

What is the Vatican's place in the modern world, and how does its diplomacy operate? In this careful appraisal, Robert A. Graham describes the history, organs, and nature of papal diplomacy. He traces the origins of diplomatic missions in Europe, Asia, and the New World from the 15th century forward; analyzes the legal aspects of 20th century Vatican diplomacy; and discusses the special problems posed by two World Wars, by the Myron C. Taylor mission, and by Communist-Catholic confrontation in many areas. 440 pages. $7.50

THREE AGAINST THE THIRD REPUBLIC

Sorel, Barrès, and Maurras

By MICHAEL CURTIS

A study that compares the political thought of three writers who, between 1885 and 1914, were leaders in the counter-revolutionary movement in France. Different though the three men were in their conception of political order, they were commonly opposed to liberal democracy as a system of government and to most of the ideology and institutions of the Third Republic. Because of their impact on the generation that guided France before World War I, and because their attitudes foreshadow later totalitarian programs, Sorel, Barrès and Maurras have a significant place in any assessment of modern European political history. 314 pages. $6

NATO AND AMERICAN SECURITY

Edited by KLAUS KNORR

A group of experts examines the future of NATO and its relation to American security in the light of various differences among NATO powers that have tended to weaken the alliance in the face of constant Soviet pressure. Among the subjects discussed are military strategy for limited and full scale war, the problem of deterrence, nuclear sharing, surprise attack and disarmament, the special positions of Germany and Britain, and possible alternatives to NATO. Contributors are: C. E. Black, A. L. Burns, G. A. Craig, D. Healey, R. Hilsman, M. Hoag, M. A. Kaplan, K. Knorr, P. H. Nitze, G. W. Rathjens, Jr., T. C. Schelling, and F. J.
