"GREAT BRITAIN AND THE EAST" is the only weekly journal in Great Britain devoted specifically and exclusively to the general affairs of the many important countries indicated in its title. Its International, as well as Imperial, status is therefore unique, and its circulation is as wide-ranging as the territories it covers.

In brief, its aim is to record, and comment on, the activities—political, cultural, and economic—of the peoples of the NEAR AND MIDDLE EAST, INDIA AND THE FAR EAST, to supply them with a practical link with Great Britain as well as with one another, and to promote their material prosperity by the assistance given to industry and commerce.

The annual subscription comprises not only the regular weekly numbers but also the valuable Supplements issued during the course of the year. These deal authoritatively and comprehensively with the progress—economic, social, and political—of the particular country dealt with, covering the industries and oversea trade, so that their contents form a handy work of reference.
