

The Foundations of the German Empire

Selected Documents

Edited by Helmut Böhme; translated by Agatha Ramm

The opening section of this book outlines the changing views of historians on 19th-century German history. The documents emphasize the economic and social factors governing German unification under Prussia and the opposition of the Southern states to it. The development of Prussian foreign policy is also traced. Many of the texts are published for the first time. £3.50 paper covers £1.50

The House of Commons in the Eighteenth Century

P. D. G. Thomas

This book is concerned with the procedure and practice of the House of Commons in the context of the contemporary political background. The aim is to show how the House conducted its business at a time when debates and votes were of real significance. The eighteenth century saw the evolution of many modern Parliamentary forms and customs as the House came to political maturity, ranging from changes in the times of meeting to a great rise in the prestige of the office of the Speaker. £3.50

Administrative Law

H. W. R. Wade

The powers of the state are growing incessantly and they affect every citizen in numerous ways. Much of the law that keeps them under control is judge-made, and there have been important developments since it was described in Professor Wade's second edition four years ago. In the new edition, full account is taken of recent decisions in which the courts have asserted their powers. Third edition £1.75
Clarendon Law Series

Constitutional Theory

Geoffrey Marshall

This book introduces and examines some of the basic ideas underlying the Anglo-American system of constitutional government—the State, Law and Convention, Sovereignty, the Separation of Powers, Judicial Review, Equality, Liberty, and Public Order. The major civil rights are considered—in particular the right to equality before the Law and the right to freedom of speech and assembly. Finally the author examines the problem posed for constitutionalism by civil disobedience. £2.25 Clarendon Law Series

Politics and the Stages of Growth

W. W. ROSTOW

In this new book Professor Rostow continues the analysis he began in his well-known book, The Stages of Economic Growth (Second edition, Cambridge, 1971, Cloth £2.60; Paperback, 80p). He sees politics as an eternal triangle of competing imperatives—security, welfare and constitutional order. Using this concept he examines the political meaning and content of each of the stages as experienced by eight countries: Great Britain, France, China, Japan, Russia, Turkey, Mexico and the United States.

Capitalism and Modern Social Theory

A Study of Marx, Durkheim and Max Weber

A. GIDDENS

A new analysis of the works of the three authors who have contributed most to establishing the basic framework of contemporary sociology. The first three sections of the book, based on close textual examination of the original sources, contain separate treatments of each writer. The concluding section compares and contrasts Marx's viewpoint with those of the other two authors. It shows that some of the conventional views on this matter are misconceived.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. All contributions should be sent to: The Editor, British Journal of Political Science, University of Essex, Colchester, Essex.

2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 12,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible.

3. Notes are welcome and every effort will be made to publish them quickly. A note should contain a body of original information, a new method for doing something or a new idea (speculation, argument, proof, etc.) presented in a brief and unadorned form without any inessential commentary. Only exceptionally will notes over two thousand words in length be accepted.

4. It is hoped to carry in each issue, where possible, an article of some 10,000 words reviewing the state of some area of the discipline. Review articles submitted without prior consultation will be considered, but in their own interest contributors would be well advised not to prepare a review article specially for the journal without first discussing the subject with the editor.

5. Letters, criticisms of articles, and similar contributions will be considered for early publication, especially if they are brief—say under 1,000 words.

6. Authors of articles and review articles receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if ordered at proof stage.

7. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere. In the interests of authors, copyright is normally assigned to the Cambridge University Press.

8. Contributions intended for publication should, if possible, be submitted IN DUPLICATE. They must be typed and reproduced in any clearly legible form. The preferred size of paper is A4 ( $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11\frac{1}{2}$  in) but quarto ( $8 \times 10$  in) or the US standard size ( $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$  in) will also be accepted.

9. The entire material, including quotations, footnotes, appendices, etc., should be double spaced with left-hand margins of at least  $1\frac{1}{2}$  in. The preferred treatment of footnotes is that they should be numbered consecutively in the text and typed all together at the end, beginning on a fresh page, but manuscripts employing other methods of arranging footnotes will not be rejected simply on those grounds.

10. References to books and articles should include the following details: in the case of books, the full title, place of publication, publisher and date; in the case of articles, the author and title, full name of the journal, volume, year and page reference (first and last page). Good articles which contain this bibliographical information will be accepted, even if they do not follow the journal's own arrangement of the information.

11. Anyone who is contemplating writing an article (etc.) for submission to the journal is urged to follow the style sheet issued by the journal, which covers a number of detailed points of spelling, punctuation, etc. Copies can be obtained by writing to the editor; in addition members of the board and the consultative committee can supply their colleagues with copies.

12. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the editor, by airmail where appropriate, within ten days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent direct to the editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
