

THREE NEW BOOKS FROM ONE OF THE MOST INFLUENTIAL AND PROLIFIC POLITICAL AND SOCIAL THEORISTS: JON ELSTER

Nuts and Bolts for the Social Sciences

Intended as an introductory survey of the philosophy of the social sciences, this book is essentially a work of exposition that offers a tool box of mechanisms—nuts and bolts, cogs and wheels—that can be used to explain complex social phenomena. Elster describes the fascinating range of forms of irrationality—wishful thinking, the phenomenon of sour grapes, discounting the future in non-cooperative behavior. He shows how these issues bear directly on our lives in such concrete situations as wage bargaining, economic cartels, political strikes, voting in elections, and court decisions involving child custody.

The Cement of Society A Study of Social Order

The question addressed in this challenging new book is what binds societies together and prevents them from disintegrating into chaos and war. Elster analyzes two concepts of social order: stable, predictable patterns of behavior, and cooperative behavior. The book examines various aspects of collective action and bargaining from the perspective of rational choice theory and the theory of social norms. It is a fundamental assumption of the book that social norms provide an important kind of motivation for action that is irreducible to rationality.

Solomonic Judgements Studies in the Limitation of Rationality

This volume of essays is very much a sequel to the two earlier collections by Jon Elster, Ulysses and the Sirens and Sour Grapes. His topic is rationality—it's scope, its limitations, and its failures. A key and controversial essay that gives the collection its title examines disputes in cases of child custody that are paradigmatically indeterminate. Leaving aside cases where one parent is patently unfit, Elster presents three options: a strong presumption in favor of the mother, a strong presumption in favor of the primary caretaker, and tossing a coin. Though the first two options may be preferable in the short term, Elster argues that there is a case for randomization in the long term.

The Dynamics of Rational Deliberation

Brian Skyrms

In this illuminating work, Brian Skyrms constructs a theory of "dynamic deliberation" and uses it to investigate rational decisionmaking in cases of strategic interaction. It will be of great interest to all those in many disciplines who use decision theory and game theory to study human behavior and thought.

"An important book...With its unprecedentedly broad and clear surveys, unified by Skyrms's original contributions, it will be read and discussed by a good many practitioners and students of philosophy (and economics and political theory)."

Philosophy & Public Affairs

"PHILOSOPHY AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS" was created to promote the discussion of matters of public concern, and to bridge the gap that exists between philosophers and those in other disciplines who are working on questions that raise philosophical issues. The journal has maintained a high level of discussion from the start." —Peter Singer, The New York Times Magazine

INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Article contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to Economics and Philosophy, Department of Economics, Fernald House, Williams College, Williamstown, MA 01267, U.S.A. The journal's editorial office may also be accessed at BITNET address

SMONTGOMERY@WILLIAMS

or at ARPANET address

SMONTGOMERY@VAX.CS.WILLIAMS.EDU

Please use for correspondence only.

Authors should send four copies of their manuscript and reserve one copy for their use in checking proofs. Articles must be in English. Spelling, capitalization, and punctuation must be consistent within each article and conform with the Thirteenth Edition of The Chicago Manual of Style (University of Chicago Press).

Books for review should be sent to the Book Review Editor: Professor Margaret Schabas, Department of History of Science, 4143 Helen White Hall, University of Wisconsin, Madison, WI 53706.

Her BITNET address is

MSCHABAS@WISMACC.BITNET.

Preparation of manuscript. A separate title page should be prepared carrying the article title, auxiliary short title (not over 50 characters), author's full name (in the form preferred for publication), and author's affiliation (including full mailing address and phone number). Because blind reviewing will be employed, authors are asked to identify themselves only on the title page.

The entire manuscript (including notes and references) should be typed double-spaced on 8½ by 11 inch or A4 paper, with wide margins for copy editing. Manuscript pages should be numbered consecutively.

Figures. If the manuscript is accepted for publication, the author must provide figures that are ready for photographic reproduction; they cannot be redrawn by the publisher, unless the author pays for the cost of such work. Charts, graphs, or other artwork must be drawn by a professional artist or computer generated on a laser printer, in black ink on white paper, and should remain legible after a 50% reduction. All labels and details on figures should be clearly printed (or done in transfer type of a sans-serif face such as Helvetica).

References and notes. Bibliographic citations in the text must include the author's last name and the date of publication and may include page references: (Bryant, 1980, pp. 335–44). When an author's name is part of the text, the following form should be used: "Bryant (1980, pp. 335–44) maintained that" When a work by two or more authors is referred to, all names should be given in the first citation: (Kravis, Heston, and Summers, 1978), with subsequent citations of the form (Kravis et al., 1978). When separate works are referred to within the same parentheses, they should be listed in alphabetical order. Those by the same author should be separated by commas and those by different authors by semicolons: (Fuss and McFadden, 1978; Georgescu-Roegen, 1971, 1976).

Complete bibliographic information for each citation should be included in the list of references. References should be typed in alphabetic order using the style of the following examples:

Arrow, Kenneth J. 1974. The Limits of Organization. New York: Norton.

Bryant, John. 1980. "A Model of Reserves, Bank Runs, and Deposit Insurance." Journal of Banking and Finance 4:355–64.

Fuss, Melvyn, and McFadden, Daniel (editors). 1978. Production Economics: A Dual Approach to Theory and Applications. Amsterdam: North Holland.

Georgescu-Roegen, 1976. "Chamberlain's New Economics and the Unit of Production." In Monopolistic Competition Theory: Studies in Impact, edited by Robert E. Kuenne, pp. 31–62. New York: Wiley.

Titles of journals may not be abbreviated.

When more than an in-text citation is called for, footnotes may be used. These should be numbered consecutively throughout the text and typed at the bottom of the page in which they are cited. Source citations within footnotes follow the same style as citations in text.

Copyediting and proofreading. The publishers reserve the right to copyedit and proofread all articles accepted for publication, but authors will be consulted in the case of any substantial changes. Page proofs of article will be sent to the lead author for correction of typographical errors only.

General. The lead author will receive 25 offprints of his or her article free of charge; additional numbers may be purchased if ordered at proof stage. Submission of an article implies that it has not been published elsewhere. Authors are responsible for obtaining written permission to publish material for which they do not own the copyright. Contributors will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press.
