APSA International Programs

2016 MENA Workshop on “Civil Society in Comparative Perspective”

APSA is pleased to announce that the 2016 MENA Workshops program, entitled “Civil Society Revisited: Research Associational Life in Comparative Perspective,” will be hosted by the American University of Beirut (AUB) and the American University in Cairo (AUC). This two-part workshop program is a unique opportunity to network with colleagues from across the MENA region and develop current research related to civil society in the Arab region and the changing state-society dynamics engendered by the Arab Uprisings of 2011. With support from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, the organizers will cover all costs of participation (including travel, lodging, meals, and materials) for up to 22 qualified applicants. A call for participant applications is forthcoming. Check the MENA Workshops website (www.apsanet.org/menaworkshops) for the latest updates on 2016 programming and beyond.

Bryce Fund to Support International Scholarship

APSA's Centennial Center for Political Science & Public Affairs is now accepting applications for supplemental research awards. Established to support the global study of political life and the internationalization of the political science discipline, the James Bryce Fund provides supplemental support for research residencies in the Centennial Center and elsewhere, collaborative research workshops involving political scientists from the United States and abroad, and teaching and curriculum development programs for emerging political science communities. For more information visit: <http://www.apsanet.org/centennialcenter>.

TIM Membership

APSA's Targeted International Membership (TIM) is available to scholars in low-income and lower-middle income countries. At a significantly reduced annual dues rate, benefits of TIM include complete access to APSA online services; discounted publications; eJOBS service; subscription to the electronic or hard copy versions of PS: Political Science & Politics, Perspectives on Politics, and the American Political Science Review. For more information contact: membership@apsanet.org.
