

AFRICAN STUDIES

REVIEW

VOLUME XVII, NUMBER 2
SEPTEMBER 1974

ARTICLES BY

PAUL BRIETZKE
DAVID WILLIAM COHEN
DON DODSON
EUGENIA W. HERBERT
THOMAS W. LIVINGSTON
ALAN P. MERRIAM
S.A. ONI & J. K. OLAYEMI
GARY WASSERMAN
RICHARD F. WEISFELDER

RESEARCH & TEACHING NOTES

ALF ANDREW HEGGOY
JAMES B. WOLF

Published by the
AFRICAN STUDIES ASSOCIATION

Edited by the
PROGRAM OF EASTERN
AFRICAN STUDIES

Maxwell School, Syracuse University

AFRICAN STUDIES REVIEW is edited and published three times a year (April, September, and December) by the Program of Eastern African Studies, The Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse University. The views expressed are the authors' and not necessarily those of the Association, its officers, or the Program of Eastern African Studies.

Editor

Alan K. Smith
Program of Eastern African Studies

Teaching Notes Editor

Evelyn Jones Rich
Director, School Services Division
African American Institute

Review Essay Editor

Hans E. Panofsky
Curator, Melville J. Herskovits Library
Northwestern University

Editorial Board: Rand Bishop (Literature, SUNY-Oswego); James L. Brain (Anthropology, SUNY-New Paltz); Ross Coates (Fine Arts, Russell Sage College); S. J. Cooney (History, Rutgers University); Neville Dyson-Hudson (Anthropology, SUNY-Binghamton); John D. Esseks (Political Economy, Northern Illinois); Judith L. Evans (Psychology, University of Massachusetts); Harvey K. Flad (Geography, Vassar College); Thomas H. Henriksen (History, SUNY-Plattsburgh); Milton R. Konvitz (Law, Cornell University); Germina Lubega (Economics, Hamilton College); Charles H. Lyons (Education, Teachers College, Columbia University); C. Chinwoke Mbadinuju (International Relations, SUNY-Cortland); Alvin Magid (Political Science, SUNY-Albany); David W. McDowell (Education, SUNY-New Paltz); R. A. Obudho (Geography, Rutgers University); Victor C. Uchendu (Sociology, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign); Norman Uphoff (Economics, Cornell); Warren Weinstein (Political Science, SUNY-Oswego); Claude Welch (International Relations, SUNY-Buffalo).

Review Secretary: Mrs. Sarah L. LaMar

The African Studies Review is a publication of the African Studies Association. Receipt of the Review, the African Studies Newsletter, and Issue (a quarterly journal of opinion on Africa) is automatic with Membership in the Association. For information on Membership, write the African Studies Association, 218 Shiffman Center, Brandeis University, Waltham, Massachusetts, 02154.

Advertising information is available from the Association's office at Brandeis University.

Domestic claims for non-receipt of issues must be made to the Association's office within six months of the month of publication; overseas claims, one year.

THIS ISSUE OF THE AFRICAN STUDIES REVIEW
WAS EDITED BY PATRICK J. MCGOWAN. BEGINNING
WITH THE DECEMBER 1974 ISSUE, ALAN K. SMITH
WILL ASSUME THE EDITORSHIP OF THE REVIEW.

DON DODSON, an Acting Assistant Professor of Communication at Stanford University, is a specialist in mass media and popular culture in Africa. His most recent publication is "The Role of the Publisher in Onitsha Market Literature" in Research in African Literature (Fall 1973).

ALAN P. MERRIAM is Professor, and former Chairman, of the Department of Anthropology, Indiana University. He is a specialist in the arts in anthropology, and has made a number of field trips to Africa, especially to the Republic of Zaire. His most recent book, An African World: The Basongye Village of Lupupa Ngye, will appear in the fall of 1974.

PAUL BRIETZKE is an Assistant Professor of Law at Haile Sellassie I University, having formerly taught at the University of Malawi. His interests include African criminal law and law and development.

S. A. ONI is a Senior Lecturer in Agricultural Economics at the University of Ibadan, Nigeria. A specialist in production economics and agribusiness management, he has published considerably in academic journals on the economics of peasant cocoa production. His most recent article is "Estimating Supply Response via Producer Panel Approach: A Case Study of Western Nigerian Cocoa Farmers." published in Indian Journal of Agricultural Economics, (Vol. XXVII, No. 2).

J. K. OLAYEMI is a Research Fellow in Agricultural Economics in the Nigerian Institute of Social and Economic Research, University of Ibadan, Nigeria. A specialist in Production Economics, he has published a number of articles on the economics of cocoa production in Nigeria one of the most recent being "Technology in the Western Nigerian Cocoa Industry: An Empirical Study" published in the Economic Bulletin of Ghana, (Vol. 2, No. 2).

RICHARD F. WEISFELDER is a visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science at Iowa State University. A specialist on the Southern African region, he has published several articles, chapters and monographs on the domestic politics and foreign relations of the Kingdom of Lesotho.

EUGENIA W. HERBERT has taught African history at Quinnipiac College and Yale University. A specialist in the economic history of the pre-colonial period, she is presently working on a study of the African copper trade and its cultural implications.

GARY WASSERMAN is an Assistant Professor of Politics at Medgar Evers College of the City University of New York. A student of Third World-industrialized states' relations and theories of imperialism, his not-yet published dissertation concerns the adaptation of Europeans to Kenya decolonization.

THOMAS W. LIVINGSTON is an Assistant Professor of Education at the University of California, Berkeley. A comparative educator concentrating on Africa, his most recent book is Education and Race: A Bibliography of Edward W. Blyden, (Berkeley, Glendessary Press, 1974).

ALF ANDREW HEGGOY is an Associate Professor of History at the University of Georgia. He specializes in modern North African History and in French Imperial History. He has published two books, The African Policies of Gabriel Hanotaux (University of Georgia Press, 1972) and Insurgency and Counterinsurgency in Algeria (Indiana University Press, 1972) as well as numerous articles in a variety of journals. In 1974, he won two teaching awards at the University of Georgia: The Outstanding Honors' Professor Award and the Joseph H. Parks Award for Distinguished Teaching in History.

JAMES B. WOLF is an Associate Professor of History in the Division of Social Science at the University of Colorado at Denver. His research in the past has focused on East Africa, the most recent publication being "Asian and African Recruitment in the Kenya Police, 1920-1950" in The International Journal of African Historical Studies, VI, 3 (1973). He is currently beginning a comparative study of Afrikaner and Irish anti-imperialism in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

DAVID WILLIAM COHEN is an Associate Professor of History and the Director of the Program in Atlantic History and Culture at the Johns Hopkins University. Author of The Historical Tradition of Busoga: Mukama and Kintu (Clarendon, 1972), he is now completing a study of the pre-colonial history of Bunatu Village in Busoga, Uganda.