The return of contributions cannot be guaranteed unless return postage is provided.

Manuscripts should be double spaced throughout (including footnotes, etc.) and should be typed on one side of the paper with ample margins. Contributors with word processors are requested to underline rather than use an italic font, and to avoid justification of right margins, automatic hyphenation and bold face type.

Footnotes should be numbered consecutively and be typed, double spaced, on separate pages at the end. Musical examples, figures, tables, etc. should also be supplied on separate sheets.

Contributors who wish to reproduce photographs should provide good black and white prints, full details of the source and the full address of the copyright holder if this differs. Photographs will not normally be considered unless they are an intrinsic part of the contribution, and their inclusion will always be at the discretion of the editors. The full address of the copyright holder should also be provided for any other material used in which the contributor does not hold copyright.

Punctuation should follow standard British practice. Single quotation marks should be used with double reserved for quotations within quotations. Punctuation that is not part of the quoted material should be outside closing quotation marks, as should footnote indicators. Longer quotations should be indented left without quotation marks and double spaced. Prose citations should be in English unless the original is of particular importance, unpublished or inaccessible, in which case the original should be followed by a translation in square brackets. Verse citations should be in the original language followed by a prose translation in square brackets.

Editorially added ellipses should be placed within square brackets [...] to distinguish them from any ellipses in quoted text and from the Italian punctuation Dates should be on the following model: c. 1740, 1840s, 5 February 1943. References should be to: Act I scene 2, op. 1 no. 2 in E major, Ex. 12 and Exx. 12–14, Fig. 3 and Figs. 6–9, motif(s) and leitmotif(s). For precise identification of pitch, use this system:

Richard Strauss: Salome

Edited by DERRICK PUFFETT

This is the first full-length study of Salome in English for over eighty years. The contributors present an informative collection of historical, critical and analytical studies on one of Strauss's most familiar operas. The topics covered include the literary background, the opera's relation to Wagnerian musical drama, and tonal and dramatic structure. There is a synopsis and discography.

Opera in Portugal in the Eighteenth Century

MANUEL CARLOS DE BRITO

This is the first detailed documentary history of opera in Portugal from the beginning of the eighteenth century to the inauguration of the still-existing Teatro de S. Carlos in 1793. The study examines the close links between Italian and Portuguese Opera, and shows how important the patronage of King José I was for the development of court opera and the fostering of work by a number of excellent native Portuguese composers.

Richard Strauss: Arabella

KENNETH BIRKIN

This is the first comprehensive guide to Strauss's Arabella. Special features of this handbook are a commentary on one of the Strauss Arabella sketchbooks and an investigation of a series of as yet unpublished letters from Strauss to Böhm, Kraus and Fanto which throw light on events leading up to the 1933 premieres in Nazi Germany. A wide selection of critical comment shows a developing appreciation of a work which has been censured in the past.

Alban Berg: Wozzeck

DOUGLAS JARMAN

This handbook provides a clear and accessible introduction to one of the most significant operas of the twentieth century. Douglas Jarman places the opera in the context of the radical developments of the musical language in the early decades of the century and of the development of Berg's own musical style. Contemporary photographs, many published for the first time, are included.

Cantonese Opera

Performance as Creative Process

BELL YUNG

Bell Yung's study of Cantonese opera considers the creative process involved in the performance of these operas in which as many as sixty singers/actors/dancers and a dozen or more instrumentalists take part. With the guidance of only a written script and an extensive repertory of pre-existent tunes, operas are staged as a rule without rehearsal or reference to musical notation.
