An Equitable Framework for Humanitarian Intervention

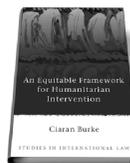

Ciarán Burke

“...has potential to become one of the most important books in public international law of the decade, or in a generation.” Martin Scheinin, Professor of Public International Law, European University Institute, Florence

This book aims at the resolution of the dilemma regarding whether armed intervention as a response to gross human rights violations is ever legally justified without Security Council authorisation.

Ciarán Burke is an academic assistant at the European University Institute, Florence, and a visiting lecturer at the University of Passau.

The Proposed Nordic Saami Convention

National and International Dimensions of Indigenous Property Rights

Edited by Nigel Banks and Timo Koivurova

In 2005 an expert group representing the governments of Norway, Sweden and Finland, and the Saami parliaments of these countries agreed upon a draft text of a Nordic Saami Convention. Key parts of the text deal with the recognition of Saami land and resource rights. More recently the three governments have embarked on negotiations to move from this draft text to a final convention that may be adopted and ratified by all three countries. Negotiations commenced in the Spring of 2011 and should be completed within five years. This collection of essays explores the national and international dimensions of indigenous property rights and the draft Convention which recognises the Saami as one people divided by international boundaries.

Nigel Banks is a Professor of Law at the University of Calgary, Alberta.

Timo Koivurova is a research Professor and Director of the Northern Institute for Environmental and Minority Law, University of Lapland.

The Occupation of Iraq: Volume 2

The Official Documents of the Coalition Provisional Authority and the Iraqi Governing Council

Stefan Talmon

The invasion and occupation of Iraq rank among the most controversial and complex issues in international law in recent history. This volume of documents covers the occupation of Iraq from the planning stages of the invasion of Iraq in early 2002 to the transfer of governing authority to the Iraqi Interim Government on 28 June 2004. This collection archives these important documents for future use and makes them easily accessible to researchers and professionals.

Stefan Talmon is Director at the Institute of Public International Law, University of Bonn.

The International Court of Justice

Robert Kolb

This new work, by a leading academic authority on international law who also appears as an advocate before the International Court of Justice, examines the Statute of the Court, its procedures, conventions and practices, in a way that will provide invaluable assistance to all international lawyers. The book covers matters such as: the composition of the court and elections, the office and role of ad hoc judges, the significance of the occasional use of smaller Chambers, jurisdiction, the range of contentious disputes which may be submitted to the Court, the status of advisory opinions, relationship to the Security Council, the law applied, preliminary objections, applications to intervene, the status of judgments and remedies.

Robert Kolb is Professor of Public International Law at the University of Geneva.

International Law and the Construction of the Liberal Peace

Russell Buchan

This book argues that since the end of the Cold War an international community of liberal states has crystallised within the broader international society of sovereign states. Significantly, this international community has demonstrated a tendency to deny non-liberal states their previously held sovereign right to non-intervention. This book deploys the concepts of the international society and the international community in order to construct an explanatory framework that can enable us to better understand recent changes to the political and legal structure of the world order and why violations of international peace and security occur.

Russell Buchan is a Lecturer in International Law at the University of Sheffield.

Free Trade and Cultural Diversity in International Law

Jingxia Shi

This book attempts to reconcile the concept of free trade with a key non-trade social value - cultural diversity - in an era of economic globalisation. It first shows how we can look at culture in many different ways, and explains why we should care about cultural diversity. The book then examines the challenges that policymakers are faced with in formulating cultural measures in the new media environment, and analyses UNESCO's theories and approaches to cultural diversity. This is followed by a comprehensive examination of the treatment of 'culture' in global and regional trade agreements, including the framework of the GATT/WTO system, the WTO's judicial practice involving cultural products, and the treatment of culture under the EC/EU and NAFTA. This identifies the challenges trade norms encounter in dealing with cultural products.

Jingxia Shi is a Professor of Law and Deputy Dean at the Law School, China University of International Business & Economics (UIBE).

TRANSNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

Transnational Environmental Law (TEL) is a peer-reviewed journal that will be launched by Cambridge University Press in 2012. TEL is dedicated to the study of environmental law and governance beyond the state. It approaches legal and regulatory developments with an interest in the contribution of non-state actors and an awareness of the multi-level governance context in which contemporary environmental law unfolds.

TEL warmly invites new work on topics within the scope of the journal from scholars, lawyers and professionals active in fields related to environmental law and governance.
