The Classical Association has a worldwide membership and is open to all who value the study of the languages, literature, and civilizations of ancient Greece and Rome. It creates opportunities for friendly exchange and co-operation among classicists, encourages scholarship through its journals and other publications, and supports classics in schools and universities. ## GREECE AND ROME EDITORIAL POLICY

The purpose of Greece and Rome is to publish scholarly but not technical articles that will be of use to all those who are interested in Classical Civilization, whether or not they are professionally engaged in its study, whether or not they can read Greek or Latin. The editors are particularly eager to report original discoveries in literary criticism, social and economic history, archaeology and art history, and the development of ideas. Illustrated articles are especially welcome. Some two hundred recently published books are reviewed annually.
