Studies in American Political Development will publish theoretical and empirical research on political development and institutional change in the United States. A diversity of subject matters and methodologies is invited, including comparative or international studies that illuminate the American case. Manuscripts of up to 75 pages in length, excluding footnotes, will be considered. There is also a Notes and Exchanges section for shorter presentation of research perspectives and findings, comments on earlier articles, and review essays on bibliography of unusual interest.

Submissions will be accepted until July 1 for publication in the fall of the following year. Authors should send three copies of the manuscript (double-spaced), which will not be returned. After initial screening by the editors, selected manuscripts will be reviewed anonymously. Publication decisions will be made with regard to the total contents of each annual volume.
