MR. DEAN,

To whom could I more appropriately dedicate than to You a Diary containing matter illustrative of Western and National Manners, and Natural Phenomena, of more than Two Centuries ago, the scene of which is principally laid in that ancient town of Axminster, which is proud to have given You birth?

Allow me to inscribe to You this contribution to General and County History; and

Believe me to be, Mr. Dean,

Your humble and obliged Servant,

GEORGE ROBERTS.
