

From the Editor

Articles in this issue cover a chronological range from the Safavid period to the twentieth century. They deal mostly with historiographical and cultural aspects of national identity, its endogenous roots and external sources, and its significance. For the bringing together of this issue I am indebted to Mohamad Tavakoli-Targhi who solicited some of the articles and helped throughout the production. My thanks are also due to Houchang Chehabi for his assistance.

Abbas Amanat
New Haven, Connecticut