British Journal of Nutrition
An International Journal of Nutritional Science
Volume 89, 2003 ISSN: 0007-1145

Aims and Scope

The British Journal of Nutrition is an international, peer-reviewed journal publishing original papers, review articles, short communications and technical notes on human and clinical nutrition, animal nutrition and basic science as applied to nutrition. Correspondence is encouraged in a Nutrition Discussion Forum. The Journal recognizes the multidisciplinary nature of nutritional science and encourages the submission of material from all of the specialities involved in research and clinical practice. The Journal also publishes supplements on topics of particular interest.

The British Journal of Nutrition is published monthly by CABI Publishing on behalf of The Nutrition Society.

The British Journal of Nutrition is available online to subscribers at <http://www.ingenta.com>

Tables of contents and abstracts are available free at the same website.

Editorial Policy for the British Journal of Nutrition Supplements

Supplements to the British Journal of Nutrition publish material which falls within the general remit of the Journal, namely the advancement of nutritional science in its broadest sense. Material to be published in Supplements will be subject to peer review, normally by one or more Supplement Editors appointed by the Editorial Board for each supplementary issue. The British Journal of Nutrition Editorial Board reserves the right not to accept for publication any material which in the opinion of the Supplement Editor(s) is of insufficient quality or scientific balance. Individual supplements may be sponsored by one or more bodies but sponsorship must not, in the judgement of the Supplement Editor(s), affect the scientific balance of the material presented.

Suggestions of material which may be suitable for publication as a supplement to the British Journal of Nutrition are welcomed; they should be directed to the Supplements Editor at the address given below:
