

The Art of Bacchylides

ANNE PIPPIN BURNETT

The first comprehensive study of the major odes of Bacchylides, Anne Burnett's book serves as an inviting guide to the great early classical poet.

Anne Burnett shows us the art of Bacchylides in the context of Greek lyric traditions – she discusses the beginnings of choral poetry and the functions of the choral myth and she describes the purposes of the victory song. In analyzing individual poems, Burnett's approach is two-fold, for each ode is seen as a choral performance reflecting archaic cult practice, while it is also studied as the expression of a particular poetic vision and sensibility.

A Short History of Greek Literature

JACQUELINE DE ROMILLY (translated by Lillian Doherty)

This excellent introduction covers more than ten centuries of Greek literature in one manageable volume. Drawing on a lifetime of teaching and research in the French tradition of classical scholarship, de Romilly presents an overview comprehensive enough to take in the whole of her subject, yet concise enough to impart a sense of its unity.

The History of Minoan Pottery

Philip P. Betancourt

"An excellent handbook that fills an urgent need for an up-to-date manual of high quality, concerning an ever-popular field of study. The subject demands a clear historical narrative of pottery styles extending over five millennia of Cretan antiquity. This Mr. Betancourt brilliantly achieves, striking a fine balance between technical and aesthetic considerations."

The Topography of Thebes from the Bronze Age to Modern Times

Sarantis Symeonoglou

This book is a comprehensive treatment of the development of Thebes as documented by archaeological and historical evidence and the literary tradition. Thebes has had a continuous history of approximately 5,000 years and for long periods has been one of the most important cities of Greece. Unfortunately, building during the past twenty-five years has almost completely destroyed or covered the ancient remains, and there is little hope, if any, of further archaeological excavation. The author, however, was able to examine the archaeological material from 270 salvage excavations, allowing him to create this record of the city's development from ca. 2500 B.C to the present.

400 pages. 53 halftones, 35 maps and line illus., 2 fold-out maps.

Aeschylus: Septem Contra Thebas

Edited by G. O. Hutchinson

This major edition of the Septem provides a text which differs substantially from others currently available; its constitution and the meaning of its words are fully discussed in the commentary. The commentary also draws on literature, art, and inscriptions to illuminate the work by placing it in the context of Greek culture and society.

Virgil's Aeneid: Cosmos and Imperium

Phillip Hardie

Explores Virgil's poetic and mythical transformation of Roman imperialist ideology. Recent criticism stresses the pessimistic and private sides of the Aeneid but any easy conclusion that Virgil was anti-Augustan is precluded by the depth and detail with which he develops the imperialist themes discussed in this book.

CAMBRIDGE

The Cambridge History of Classical Literature

Volume 1: Greek Literature

Edited by P. E. EASTERLING and B. M. W. KNOX

A companion to Volume 2: Latin Literature, this volume surveys Greek literature from Homer to the end of stable Graeco-Roman civilisation in the third century AD, and pays particular attention to texts which have become known recently. The structure is broadly chronological, with the emphasis on what is extant rather than on lost works. £47.50 net

A Commentary on the Iliad

Volume I: Iliad 1-4

G. S. KIRK

This volume covers the first four Books of the Iliad and consists of four introductory chapters dealing in particular with rhythm and formulaic techniques, followed by the detailed commentary. The aim is to help serious readers by attempting to identify and deal with most of the difficulties which might stand in the way of a sensitive and informed response to the poem. Professor Kirk is the General Editor of this projected six-volume commentary.

Science and Morality in Greco-Roman Antiquity

G. E. R. LLOYD

This inaugural lecture considers three main aspects of the relationship between science and morality in Greco-Roman antiquity: the morality of dissection and vivisection; attempts to secure the autonomy and objectivity of natural scientific inquiry; and the assumption that human beings occupy a privileged position in the animal kingdom and the cosmos as a whole. Paperback £1.95 net

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

1. One copy of an article will suffice. It will usually be returned if the contributor so requests on submitting it, but as the editors may wish to annotate it and furthermore cannot take responsibility for any loss, contributors should retain another copy.

2. Articles should be typed in double spacing on A4 paper and on one side of the paper only. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively and typed on separate sheets. Greek quotations need not be typed, but every letter must be clear and legible; especial care should be taken over accents and breathings.

3. Quotations in English, Latin, French, etc., should be put in single inverted commas, e.g.

...the phrase 'dux femina facti' has...

A quotation within a quoted passage has double inverted commas. Single words or self-contained phrases (such as fait accompli) may be underlined to indicate italics. Material inserted within a quotation is placed in square brackets:

'[The translator]... must ever be casting his eyes upwards from the copy to the original.'

4. References should normally be given in the footnotes, in the following form:

BOOKS

R. Syme, The Roman Revolution (Oxford, 1939), pp. 78–9 or op. cit., pp. 78–9.

E. Norden, *Die antike Kunstprosa*⁵ i. 164–81

or op. cit. i. 164–81.

F. Jacoby, FGrHist 328 F 4.

Authors' initials should be stated, at least at their first mention. Abbreviations should not be assigned to books unless they are generally familiar (e.g. *OCD*² omitting full points).

The Classical Association

The main aims of the Classical Association are to promote and sustain interest in classical studies, to maintain their rightful position in universities and schools, and to give scholars and teachers opportunities of meeting and discussing their problems. It organizes an annual conference, lasting four or five days, in a university centre, and sponsors twenty-nine branches, most of which hold Greek and Latin Reading Competitions for Schools. Its activities are fully reported in its annual Proceedings, issued free to all members.

The present membership of the Association is approximately 4,400. Membership is open both to individuals and to institutions at an annual subscription of £1.00 (life composition for individual members, £21.00). Members may obtain the Classical Review and Classical Quarterly at reduced prices (Review, £13.00; Quarterly, £14.00; combined subscription, £24.00). Greece & Rome may also be obtained through the Association for an annual subscription of £10.00. Application for membership and subscriptions for the journals (which should normally be received by 31 January in each year) should be addressed to the Hon. Treasurer, G. R. Watson, M.A., M.Litt., Department of Classical and Archaeological Studies, The University, Nottingham NG7 2RD.

The Association can also supply copies of the Index to the First Series of the Classical Review (price £1.50 for members, £1.75 for non-members, post free) and of the last issues of The Year's Work in Classical Studies, covering the years 1945–7 (price £1.00 each volume, post free). These publications and details of the various occasional publications of the Association are obtainable from the Hon. Treasurer. Inquiries should be sent to either of the Hon. Secretaries (Dr J. Percival, Department of Classics, University College, Cardiff, Cardiff CF1 1XA and Miss H. M. Jones, 18 Valley Close, Pinner, Middlesex).
