

MODERN THEOLOGY

Edited by Kenneth Surin

Launched in 1984, Modern Theology aims to promote international dialogue between theologians, to respond to issues, trends and movements in modern theology in a way that is both critical and constructive, and to publish articles which are technically rigorous in a journal whose overall scope remains fairly general.

Volume 3 Number 1 is a special issue and will include the following articles:

Special issue: Theology, Truth and Liberation

Judaism and the Theology of Liberation
DAN COHN-SHERBOK

Justice, Charity and the Third World
GORDON GRAHAM

The Body by Love Possessed: Christianity and Late Capitalism in Britain
JOHN MILBANK

Some Theological Reflections on Gutierrez's Use of 'Liberation' as a Theological Concept
STANLEY HAUERWAS

Spirit, Structure and Truth in the Church
RICHARD ROBERTS

BLACKWELL

Reason and Religion

Essays in Philosophical Theology

ANTHONY KENNY

Dr Kenny's new book examines central theological topics from a philosophical viewpoint. The subjects he examines range from the nature and existence of God; grace, freedom and necessity to abortion and the taking of human life and church and state in philosophy and history.

192 pages, £17.50 (0 631 15268 7)

The Intellectual Origins of the European Reformation

ALISTER McGRATH

Alister McGrath provides a meticulous examination of the nature of late medieval religious thought and presents a detailed analysis of the impact of Renaissance humanism and late medieval scholasticism, followed by a careful study of the change in attitudes to theological sources and methods as the late Middle Ages gave way to the Reformation.

240 pages, £25.00 (0 631 15144 3)

The Formation of Christendom

JUDITH HERRIN

'This is a book written with great verve, freshness of approach and originality of view. It shows a vivid appreciation of the immense variety of local conditions, opinions and customs in both the eastern and the western halves of the Roman Empire in the early Middle Ages: an important contribution to a huge subject which is just beginning to be studied as a whole.' Sir Richard Southern

Meccan Trade and the Rise of Islam

PATRICIA CRONE

Patricia Crone draws on literary, epigraphical and archaeological evidence from Classical and Islamic sources to argue that contrary to one of the most widely held dogmas in contemporary accounts of the rise of Islam, Mecca was not an important trade centre, nor was it a religious sanctuary and a centre of Arabian pilgrimage.

320 pages, £25.00 (0 631 15596 1)

The Formation of a Persecuting Society

Power and Deviance in Western Europe 950–1250

R. I. MOORE

The developments of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, which saw the appearance of popular heresy in Europe, the establishment of the Inquisition and the persecution of Jews, lepers, prostitutes and other minority groups, are here examined by R. I. Moore, who argues that the true origins of persecution lay in fundamental changes in social and economic organization, religion and government then taking place in Europe.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions and books for review should be sent to the Editor, Professor S. R. Sutherland, King's College, Strand, London, WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
8. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
9. All contributions of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviews will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
10. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
