St Peter

BY JOHN LOWE

Because a just appreciation of the subject has often been hindered by the controversies connected with the Papal claims, the Dean of Christ Church, Oxford, has here attempted to put together afresh in brief compass the facts and probabilities about St Peter in the light of the earliest evidence, including that of the recent Vatican excavations.

Principalities and Powers A Study in Pauline Theology

BY G. B. CAIRD

This study has been undertaken on the assumption that when St Paul speaks of principalities, powers, world-rulers, and elemental spirits, he is using mythological language to describe spiritual realities known to him. Professor Caird traces the Jewish beliefs that contributed to Paul's theology in this respect and shows how Paul understood the Cross as a victory over these powers.

The Idea of Revelation in Recent Thought

BY JOHN BAILLIE

What we mean by revelation is a question, says Dr Baillie, 'to which much hard thought and careful writing are being devoted in our time'. The traditional clear-cut distinction between truths of reason and truths of revelation has broken down and it is questioned whether revelation can be conceived as a set of divinely-given propositions. By reviewing recent thought on the subject Dr Baillie himself makes a valuable contribution to the discussion.
