

PUBLICATIONS

Automatic Subject Citation Alert

The Institute for Scientific Information now offers the first large-scale computerized literature-alerting service to researchers working in the social sciences. Called Automatic Subject Citation Alert, the service is designed to search through 3,500 of the world's most important journals and alert subscribers to newly published articles that are relevant to their particular interests. The service provides the subscribers with weekly bibliographies that give a complete description of each article located including title, author, and journal citation.

There are two ways to use the service. One is for subscribers to select topics they want to keep up with from a list supplied by the Institute. This form of the service is called ASCATOPICS and costs $95 per year. Another form of the service is available for those whose interests are so specialized that they are not likely to be found on the standard list of topics. In these cases, an ISI information specialist will help develop a custom search profile, called ASCA, and costs a minimum of $115 per year (prices vary according to the complexity of the search profile).

If copies of articles located through ASCA or ASCATOPICS cannot be obtained through a library, subscribers can write for a reprint using the authors' mailing addresses provided with the articles listed on their weekly reports, or they can purchase copies of the articles through ISI's Original Article Tear Sheet (OATS) service. For complete information write: ISI, 325 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, PA 19106.

CoDoC

The Cooperation in Documentation and Communication International Secretariat is a cooperating body of public documentation and communication centers engaged in the exchange of information available on the problems that the Third World confronts. CoDoC has just published the first in an experimental series of four projected catalogues to be produced during 1974. The first, The Military Coup in Chile, lists documents available in CoDOC member centers in Rome, Lima, Mexico, and the United States, and tells how to obtain the documents cited in the catalogue. For more information on CoDoC documentation work, write to the CoDoC International Secretariat, 1500 Farragut Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20011.

Latin America: A Catalog of Dissertations

Xerox University Microfilms has published a catalog which lists over 2000 dissertations on Latin America which are available through Xerox. Entries are arranged according to broad areas of scholarly enquiry, and within these areas by country studied. For more information write: Xerox University Microfilms, 300 North Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, MI 48106.

Latin American Research Review

Latin America: Essays in Continuity and Change

Latin America: Essays in Continuity and Change was produced in conjunction with the BBC Radio Series on the Problems and Potentials of Latin America. The book contains chapters on the geographical and historical background of the area, the racial diversity, political behaviour, the arts, economics, and Latin America's international relations. Price £3.00. The programs in this series were presented by Harold Blakemore, Institute of Latin American Studies, University of London, during the spring and summer 1974. For more information write: BBC Publications, London, W1A, 1AR, England.

Latin American Publications Fund

The Latin American Publications Fund was set up in 1968 by the Bank of London & South America, with the help of donations from companies with Latin American interests, to finance or subsidize the publication of original studies on current Latin American political, economic and social affairs. Besides publishing its own titles, the Fund subsidizes the commercial publication of books on Latin America.

The Fund invites applications for financial assistance in publishing original studies that might not otherwise appear in print. The most recent title in this series of original studies on current Latin American affairs is, The Andean Group: Trade, Industry and Foreign Investment, papers by Michael Kuczynski and David Huelin, 32 pages, price 60p., postage 10p. For further information contact the Secretary of the Latin American Publications Fund: Harold Blakemore, Institute of Latin American Studies, 31 Tavistock Square, London, WC1H 9HA, England.

Occasional Papers—University of Illinois

The Graduate School of Library Science of the University of Illinois publishes an Occasional Papers series. The Papers are available by subscription or by single copies. The 1974 subscription will include at least five numbers and is $5.00. Single papers are $1.00 if prepaid, $2.00 if billed and $.50 each for orders of ten or more. The first number in the 1974 series (112) was a study of, CILA: A New Approach to Problems in the Acquisition of Latin American Library Materials by John Samuel Clouston. More information from: Publications Office, 249 Armory Building, Graduate School of Library Science, University of Illinois, Champaign, IL 61820.

Seminar Papers—University of Glasgow

The Institute of Latin American Studies at the University of Glasgow will soon publish a collection of essays on Cuba, based on the seminar series of Candlemas Term 1973. This collection, edited by David Stansfield and Nelson Valdés, is provisionally entitled: The Caribbean Alternative: Essays on the Cuban Revolution.

A special seminar series recently held at the University of Glasgow focused on: Class Struggle and Revolution in Chile. The papers from this series will be published in a volume of essays on Unidad Popular.

The Institute also offers issues of its Occasional Papers. Nine issues have already been published in this series past and future titles may be obtained from: Director, Institute of Latin American Studies, University of Glasgow, Glasgow, G12 8QH, Scotland.

NEW AND SUSPENDED PERIODICALS

The Microfilm Committee of the International Council on Archives began publishing a yearly Bulletin in 1972. The first two numbers (1972 and 1973) contain information on the Committee members and their official action, general reports of microfilming in various countries as well as progress reports of microfilming specific archives, and a section on techniques used in microfilming. For additional information on the Council write: Dr. Iván Borsa, Secretary, Microfilm Committee, International Council on Archives, Budapest 1, Pf. 3, Hungary. A limited number of copies of Bulletins No. 1 and 2 are available from: Albert H. Leisinger, Jr., Chairman, Microfilm Committee of the International Council on Archives, The National Archives, Washington, D.C. 20408.

The Caribbean Education Bulletin, published by the Association of Caribbean Universities, took on a new form and began a new series in January 1974. The Bulletin will continue to appear in January, May, and September. The Bulletin focuses on higher education in the Caribbean, with special articles, statistical information, and discussions of new programs and the goals of Caribbean education. For more information write: Sir Philip Sherlock, Secretary General, Association of Caribbean Universities and Research Institutes, 27 Tobago Avenue, Kingston, Jamaica.

Graduate Studies on Latin America at the University of Kansas is a new publication of the Center of Latin American Studies. The new publication contains articles based on dissertations recently completed at the University of Kansas. These articles represent several disciplines on Latin American topics. The new publication is edited by Charles L. Stansifer. The price for individuals: $2/year and for institutions: $3/year. For more information write: Center of Latin American Studies, University of Kansas, Lawrence, KS 66045.

Indigena is an information and documentation center on the native peoples of the Americas with an office in Berkeley, California. The Center has just begun publishing the Indigena Newsletter, through which Indigena intends to educate the non-Indian public about the conditions of native American peoples, their struggle and their quest for social, economic, and cultural justice. For more information on the organization write: Indigena, P.O. Box 4073, Berkeley, CA 94704.

The Institute for Latin American Integration (INTAL) has launched, Latin American Integration, a bi-monthly bulletin in English containing information regarding events taking place in the various integration schemes of the region. This new bulletin began publication January 1974. Address inquiries concerning this new publication to: Institute for Latin American Integration, Casilla de Correo 39, Suc. 1, Buenos Aires, Argentina.

The first issue of the Latin America Review of Books appeared in spring 1973. This new publication is edited by Colin Harding and Christopher Roper and published by the Latin America Review of Books, Ltd. and Books of Leeds. The Review will provide a forum for international discussion of political, social and economic issues, and is open to anyone who feels involved in the Latin American process. The Review takes the format of a book review in order to analyze the issues currently being debated in and about Latin America. The Review has several goals: to encourage Latin American writers to contribute regularly; to publicize books which are already available in Spanish and to encourage English-language publishers to bring out the books which are seen to be important in Latin America; and to encourage non-Latin Americans to shape their research to ends which complement and do not conflict with the goals of their Latin American colleagues. Within this publication book reviews are grouped by topic or country and represent a wide range of views. The first issue of the Latin American Review of Books is available at £1.25. For more information on this unique new publication write: Latin America Review of Books, 69 Cannon Street, London EC4, England.

The final issue of the Newsletter on Comparative Studies of Communism appeared in August 1973. The Newsletter began publication in early 1968 under the editorship of Svi Gitelman and Kenneth Lieberthal as an occasional publication of the ACLS Planning Group on Comparative Communist Studies. A few hundred copies of the following back issues are still available and will be sent gratis upon request: Aug. 1971, Nov. 1971, Feb. 1972, May 1972, and Nov. 1972. All communications concerning the Newsletter should be sent to the editor: Frederic J. Fleron, Jr., Department of Political Science, State University of New York at Buffalo, 4238 Ridge Lea Road, Buffalo, NY 14226.

The Library of the Institute of Hispanic Culture has begun the publication of a bi-monthly journal, Sumario Actual de Revistas. This publication lists article titles of all publications in the humanities and social sciences which have been recently received by the Library of the Institute. The publication is indexed by title and journal and edited by José Ibáñez Cerdá, director of the Library. Persons interested in obtaining a copy of any article listed in the Sumario can write to the Institute. For more information on this publication and this new service write: Instituto de Cultura Hispánica, Avda. Reyes Católicos, Madrid 3, Spain.