AGRONOMY JOURNAL

Agronomists throughout the world have found the Agronomy Journal, monthly publication and official organ of the American Society of Agronomy, a source of up-to-date reports on agronomic research. Workers in the fields of forages and pastures, small grain improvement, corn, fibre crops and legumes, cultural practices, and soil fertility, as well as closely allied fields of investigation find articles of lasting interest in the Agronomy Journal. Publication is open to members of the American Society of Agronomy.

$15.00 per year, U.S., Canada, and pan-American countries; $16.00 per year elsewhere.

Progress in the Physiology of Farm Animals

Edited by John Hammond, C.B.E., F.R.S.

The first book of a three-volume work, of which the second and third volumes will be published shortly. The work surveys the whole field of farm animal physiology, including poultry, with the object of collecting and interpreting the research carried out over the last twenty years, and making it readily understandable and easily assimilated. Each chapter has been written by a well-known authority who has taken an active part in the progress of his subject.

Three volumes, 45s. per volume.

Silage Fermentation

By A. J. G. Barnett, B.Sc., Ph.D., F.R.S.E., Lecturer in Agricultural Biochemistry, Aberdeen University.

A review of the whole question of silage in relation to its interest as a subject of scientific study. A general description of silos is given, together with the numerous methods of making silage. The analysis and evaluation of silage is discussed in detail.

Price 27s. 6d.

Farming Records and Accounts

By James Wyllie, O.B.E., B.Sc., N.D.A.

This book demonstrates how the principles and methods of cost accounting can be successfully applied to both large and small-scale farming.
