

Latin American Research Review

ning in mid-1972. EDC, 1974. /NIMH and Peruvian sources.

TOURISM

741. Terrence Cullinan
Lassen Volcanic National Park Company
With: Tracey Cullinan and Cory Cullinan

National Parks in the Western Hemisphere.

Project will examine and catalogue the various National Parks in the Western Hemisphere, with particular interest on Latin American Parks. Involved will be: type of park, type of administration, visitation patterns, and environmental or ecological components. Begun, 1972. EDC, 1974. To be published by the National Park Company Press. /Lassen Volcanic National Park Company. A related study, Tourism Beyond the Rio Grande, was published by Terrybuk, Incorporated, 1969.

URBAN PLANNING

742. Alberto Harth Deneke
Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Marginal Urban Settlements in Central America.

A market analysis of low-income housing and settlements in the San Salvador and Guatemala metropolitan areas. The purpose of the project is to analyze the structure of the various low-income sub-markets for urban land and housing in these two metropolitan areas. An attempt will be made to measure the substitution between the various sub-markets in the "popular" sector and the public sector. Begun, 1971. EDC, 1972. /Ford Foundation and the government of El Salvador.

743. Charles A. Frankenhoff
University of Puerto Rico
With: students

An Environmental Management System for a Developing Country Metropolitan Area.

This research is concerned with the identification of environmental costs resulting from urban-regional development processes, the conversion of these environmental data into useful planning data, and the installation of an environmental management system suitable to developing country objectives. Project concentrates on Korea, Mexico, and Colombia. Begun, 1972. EDC, 1973. /University of Puerto Rico. A related work, Urban Development and Environmental Change in Latin America, was published by the OAS, 1971.

744. Anatole A. Solow
University of Pittsburgh

Institution Building for the Improvement of Local Government Administration in Latin America.

The Foundation for Community Development and Municipal Improvement, a case study of a national institution to promote the improvement of local governments in Venezuela through financial and technical assistance. Begun, 1971. EDC, 1973.

COLLECTIONS AND INTERDISCIPLINARY

BIBLIOGRAPHY

745. Rosalía Avalos de Matos

Museo Nacional de la Cultura Peruana
Con: Rogger Ravines

Bibliografía selectiva de un siglo de arqueología peruana.

Iniciada, 1971. FAT, 1972.

746. Jack A. Dabbs
Texas A&M University
Calendar of the Genaro Guajardo
Manuscript Collection.

A chronological listing of the manuscripts, rare prints, and 19th century periodicals as they were in 1939 when the collection was intact. Subject matter is Mexico 1535–1926. Listing will bring out brief notes on contents of the manuscripts and usual bibliographical data. It is requested that anyone with biographical information about Colonel Genaro Guajardo or the history of any part of his collection before or subsequent to 1939 communicate with the researcher. Begun, 1939. EDC, 1974.

747. Arthur E. Gropp
A Bibliography of Latin American Bibliographies.
A compilation of Latin American bibliographies published in periodical publications. Some 7,000 items of raw material has been gathered. EDC, 1974.

INTERDISCIPLINARY

748. G. Pope Atkins
U.S. Naval Academy
With: Larry V. Thompson
Foreign Military Influences in Argentina.

An examination of foreign military influences in a cross (multi) national context. Purposes of the study are to analyze the military means employed to achieve the foreign policy ends of certain states in their relations with Argentina, and to evaluate the Argentine response to foreign military influences, demonstrating their effect on the domestic political processes and foreign policy orientation. This study is cast into a conceptual framework or model of international military relations. Begun, 1969. EDC, 1972. /Naval Academy. A related work, The United States and the Trujillo Regime, was published by Rutgers University Press, 1972.

749. Thomas N. Chirikos
Ohio State University
With: S. C. Kelley, Michael G. Finn, Richard Stillson, Stavros Apergis, Sanford Cohen (University of New Mexico), and Bruce Herrick (UCLA)
Venezuelan Human Resource Planning Project.

Preparation of research studies prerequisite to the ultimate preparation of a long term human resource strategy for Venezuela. These include: sectoral analysis of current and future conditions of manpower demand; an analysis of labor market conditions and institutions; and a methodology for examining the role of the public sector in human resource planning. Begun, 1970. EDC, 1972. /Ohio State University and CORDIPLAN.

750. Juan E. Corradi
New York University
With: Clara E. Lida, Wesleyan University
Mass Immigration and Modernization in Argentina: XVIIIth Century to the Present.

Project is designed to stress the non-demographic aspects of mass migrations, namely the causes and consequences—social, economic, political—of the migration trends, including cultural and psychological aspects of the processes by which demographic regularities are achieved. Research is designed as a collaborative, interdisciplinary, multinational-al venture, commissioned by the International Commission on the History of Social Movements and Social Structures. Begun, 1972. EDC, 1974-75. To be published by the International Committee of Historical Sciences.

751. John Friedmann
University of California, Los Angeles
Urbanization and National Development: A Comparative Focus.

Two papers on preparation: "The Distribution of Power and the Development of Urban Systems" and "A Model of Urban Development." Project is described in LARR VI:3 (654) and V:3 (617). A related work, Urbanization and National Development: Theory, Policy, and Practice, (provisional) will be published by Sage Publications, 1972.

752. Paul R. Hoopes
Texas A & I University
With: Thomas Hughes, Rafael Lecuona, F. Matkin, Mary Mattingly, J. D. Phaup, Eugenio Soliz, Ward Albro, Alfonso Cervantes, George Coalson, Stanley Bittinger, Robert Huitt, and Victor Nelson
Ethnicity as a Factor in the Political Participation of the Mexican American in South Texas.

Research is developed around a model of the ethno-political participation of Mexican-Americans in South Texas. The aim is to build a configurative model that will serve two purposes: identification of the significant variables associated with ethno-political participation, and prediction of the impact of ethnicity in local politics. The main focus is the definition of "ethno-political participation," which presupposes a progressive politicization of the Mexican-American population in three distinctive stages: disposition, motivation, and capacitation. Begun. 1971.

EDC, 1972. /Faculty Research Committee of Texas A & I University.

753. Instituto de Investigaciones Sociales (Mexico)

Con: Dirección General de Estadística, Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia y el Instituto de Geografía

Estudio de la población de habla indígena, a través del Censo General de Población de 1970.

Si se pretende planear el desarrollo y el cambio de las comunidades indígenas es indispensable el conocimiento profundo, detallado y al mismo tiempo global de sus características demográficas, sociales y económicas; es necesario saber en qué lugares viven y cuales son los recursos materiales de que disponen; así mismo es importante encontrar las semejanzas, diferencias y relaciones que guardan con el resto de la población y también conocer, las tendencias y contradicciones que se presentan en el cambio sociocultural que se realiza en sus comunidades. La cabal comprensión dentro de lo posible, de la problemática de la población indígena requiere, a su vez, que se le ubique en relación con su contexto regional y en términos de su proceso histórico de cambio. Iniciado, 1971. /Gubernativas y UNAM.

754. Howard Justin Sosis
Columbia University

The Black Cults of Saint-Domingue. Project will analyze plantation registers, correspondance of missionaries, slave ship logbooks, colonial prison records, and correspondance among persons residing in Saint-Domingue to discern the sociological and historical development of religious associations among the slaves at specific stages in the growth and development of the slavocracy. Project will describe the involvement of missionaries with blacks in order to determine the quality and nature of the confrontation between Christianity and the religious societies in the ateliers. Begun, 1965.

CURRENT RESEARCH INVENTORY

755. Henry A. Landsberger
University of North Carolina
With: John D. Martz

The Dynamics of Latin American Development.

An interdisciplinary text covering: 1) the developmental setting (ideologies, economic forces, demographic factors, and social structure) 2) the developmental process (revolutions, military role, and political party government; and 3) developmental policy problems (industrialization, agrarian reform, education, and planning. Begun, 1972. EDC, 1973. To be published by Prentice-Hall.

756. Richard S. MacNeish
R. S. Peabody Foundation
Ayacucho-Huanta Archaeological Botanical Project.

Continues. See LARR VI:1 (179).

757. James V. Neel
University of Michigan
With: Additional U.S. and Latin American researchers

Multidisciplinary Studies of the American Indian.

An effort is in progress at comprehensive ethnological, anthropological, genetic, linguistic, and medical studies of the Yanomama and Makiritare Indian tribes located in southern Venezuela and northern Brazil. Begun, 1965. EDC, 1975. /National Science Foundation and the Atomic Energy Commission.

758. Carlos Ripoll
Queens College, CUNY
The Life and Works of José Martí in New York (1880–1895).

Investigation and study focus on an organic presentation of biographical, literary, and political aspects of this crucial 15 year period in Martí's life. Project has produced to date the following volumes: Escritos desconocidos de José Martí; Patria; El periódico de José Martí; Registro General; Archivo José Martí: Repertorio crítico; and Índice Universal de la Obra de José Martí. Research ongoing; principal work and bibliography in progress. Further description in LARR V:1 (43). /Research Foundation of the City University of New York.

759. Martin H. Sable
University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee
Latin American Research Resources. Combination annotated bibliography covering social sciences and humanities reference materials and definitive monographs, international in scope, with directories of organizations and archives. Begun, 1968. EDC, 1972.

INVENTORY POST SCRIPT

ADMINISTRATION

Richard D. Hays
Tulane University
Ascribed Behavioral Determinants of Success-Failure Among U.S. Expatriate Managers.

Article. Journal of International Business Studies, Spring, 1971. LARR VI:1 (35).

ANTHROPOLOGY

Frank Cancian
Stanford University