The Origin of Christology

C. F. D. MOULE

A major scholarly contribution to what has become an intense popular debate. Professor Moule suggests that understanding of Jesus and what was in Him from the beginning developed in various ways and on various levels during the first century. He tests the thesis by re-examining the familiar characterizations of Jesus as 'Son of Man', 'Son of God', 'Christ' and 'Lord' and looking afresh at the Pauline reflection of experience of Jesus as more than an individual. £7.50 net

The New Testament Concept of Witness

ALLISON A. TRITES

An examination of the understanding of 'witness' which, as Professor Trites shows, is developed in a sustained way throughout the New Testament and is to be understood in terms of the Old Testament legal assembly. £12.00 net
