ICPSR Methodology Monograph Series

The Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research is initiating a monograph series on social science methodology. The aim of the series is timely publication of innovative work, the scope of which exceeds that of journal article length. Each monograph will be between 60 and 125 pages in length.

The series will be interdisciplinary in scope and will emphasize quantitative research methodology including areas such as conceptualization and design, analysis, formalization, and computer utilization.

The editorial board consists of Michael Hannan (editor, Stanford University), Christopher H. Achen (University of California, Berkeley), Lutz Erbring (University of Michigan), Robert M. Hauser (University of Wisconsin, Madison), Paul W. Holland (Educational Testing Service), John E. Jackson (University of Pennsylvania), Karl G. Jöreskog (University of Uppsala), Samuel H. Preston (Population Division, United Nations), Richard Rubinson (John Hopkins University), W. Phillips Shively (University of Minnesota), Aage B. Sørensen (University of Oslo), and Nancy Brandon Tuma (Stanford University).

Manuscripts (3 copies) should be sent to Professor Michael Hannan, Department of Sociology, Stanford University, Stanford, California 94305. Information on subscriptions, and individual and bulk orders may be obtained from ICPSR, Box 1248, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106.

Other Announcements

Dynamics of Modern Industrial Cities

The University of Connecticut Department of History and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) will hold an international conference on "The Dynamics of Modern Industrial Cities: Comparative Perspectives on Order and Disorder" during the final weekend of September, 1979 (September 28 and 29). Funding is anticipated from the Rockefeller Foundation and other sources. The conference will be divided into the following four sessions, all of which will explore the sources of order and disorder in the modern industrial city: 1) the role of family and neighborhood; 2) class tension and the mechanisms of social control; 3) the economy of cities; 4) the survival of industrial cities. Policy science implications will be considered. Approximately forty American and foreign scholars, including sixteen who will present papers or serve as commentators and/or panelists, along with several policy makers, will be invited to this working meeting, the proceedings of which are planned for publication. Honoraria and/or reimbursement of partial or full expenses will be offered. Interested persons are invited to submit for consideration papers or paper summaries relevant to the above topics or nominations of appropriate participants by March 1, 1979 to the program chairperson, Bruce M. Stave, Department of History, The University of Connecticut, Storrs, Connecticut 06268.
