

---

Pork Barrel Politics

Rivers and Harbors Legislation, 1947-1968

John A. Ferejohn. Are a few powerful senators and congressmen able to treat the public purse as a development fund for their states or districts? This study examines the extent to which a pork barrel system exists, in the process illuminating the procedures and influences involved in all federal funding of public works. The author traces the complex path taken by rivers and harbors projects from origination to funding and then examines the fate of such projects in Congress. $12.50

Stanford University Press

---

THE NEW CORPORATISM: Social-Political Structures in the Iberian World

Fredrick B. Pike and Thomas Stritch, editors. Five researchers examine the theory and practice of corporatism in Spain, Portugal, and Latin America, where modified forms of corporatism are becoming increasingly important as alternatives to both U.S. liberalism and Marxian models.

240 pages

$8.95 (cl), $2.95 (pa)

AMERICA IN CHANGE: Reflections on the 60's and 70's

Ronald Weber, editor. Scholars reflect on the sense of radical change in contemporary American society, religion and philosophy, science and technology, and the arts and media.

238 pages

$7.95 (cl), $2.95 (pa)

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME PRESS
Notre Dame, Indiana 46556