MEGALITHS FROM ANTIQUITY

The third volume of reprinted classic papers explores the theme of British and European megaliths. Thirty-six papers examine four principal themes on megalithic studies. The earliest monuments – the great tombs and dolmens – reveal the extent of megalithic variety. Papers range from Daniel's early studies of British dolmens to more recent debates; the perennial interest in Stonehenge and Avebury has figured prominently in ANTIQUITY and is brought fully up to date. The presence of timber and earth circles as precursors or alternatives to megalithic structures show further variety in ancient monument building. The final section, Beyond the Megaliths, through studies of ancient engineering, archaeoastronomy and sensory archaeology demonstrates the abiding interest in interpretations of function and meaning of the ancient stones. ISBN 0-9539762-2-X

Price: £18.99 (per volume) + £3.00 (£5.00 overseas) postage.

Price to ANTIQUITY subscribers: £15.39 + £3.00 (£5.00 overseas) postage

CELTS FROM ANTIQUITY, the second volume of reprinted classic papers explores a central theme of European Archaeology. Twenty-five papers represent ancient and modern approaches to the study of the Celts; the debate over Celtic identity; key discoveries and reinterpretations in continental archaeology; fieldwork and debate in the Southern British Iron Age; fieldwork and debate in the Scottish Iron Age. Each section is introduced with a personal perspective from the editors to set the articles within current and future trends of Iron Age archaeology. ISBN 0-9539762-1-1

LANDSCAPES FROM ANTIQUITY, the first volume of reprinted classic papers explores a central archaeological theme: Landscapes from Antiquity. Twenty-four papers have been selected to represent ancient and modern landscape approaches, organized into thematic sections: Early studies of Fox and Curwen, aerial photography of Bradford, Crawford and St Joseph, survey method, integrated regional landscapes, physical, industrial, contested and experienced landscapes. ISBN 0-9539762-0-3

Price: £17.99 (per volume) + £3.00 (£5.00 overseas) postage.

Price to ANTIQUITY subscribers: £14.39 + £3.00 (£5.00 overseas) postage.

Notes for authors and subscribers

Submissions to the journal should report significant new international research, methods or matters of professional and public interest. Antiquity is committed to a policy of frank and fair comment.

Please write in clear English, so your work can be understood by every member of the broader archaeological and scientific community. Contributors whose first language is not English can send a text in their own language as well, to help the Editor present their work as clearly as possible.

Initial approaches are welcome and should be directed to the editor. Draft contributions of up to 6000 words may be sent either via e-mail or as three paper copies with a 3.5in disc in Word or Word Perfect. Please give the contact address, telephone number and e-mail of the corresponding author.

Illustrations can include line drawings, black and white or colour photographs of professional quality, and should be sent as hard copies or e-pictures via e-mail. Please remember that images for publication need to be scanned with a resolution of at least 300 dpi and line-drawings at least 600 dpi. If photographs are submitted electronically we prefer them to be submitted as .tif, .eps or .jpg files and images to be saved as CMYK images.

All submissions will be sent to at least two anonymous referees. If a paper is accepted, the corresponding author will be sent a digest of the referees' comments and those of the Editor, either incorporated in a letter or a proposed revision of the text. This will form the basis for acceptance. Accepted authors will be requested to return their revised text with any camera-ready art-work, and will be sent a proof for checking before publication.

Authors should receive an immediate acknowledgement that a submission has been received, a decision on acceptance and/or request for revision after peer-review within three months. Papers accepted without revision should appear within six months of submission.

Please send questions, suggestions or copy to:

When Life Nearly Died

The Greatest Mass Extinction of all Time

Michael J. Benton

‘A great tale, beautifully told’ – Niles Eldredge, American Museum of Natural History and author of Reinventing Darwin

Around 251 million years ago the world was rocked by the greatest disaster it has ever endured – a cataclysm in which at least 90% of all life was killed, both on land and in the sea, and which almost brought evolution to a halt. But what caused destruction on such an unimaginable scale? Michael Benton does more than document this catastrophic event; he also presents a history of developing ideas, explaining how we know what we know about geology and palaeontology, and laying bare the arguments and egos of scientists.

Return to Chauvet Cave

Excavating the Birthplace of Art: The First Full Report

Jean Clottes

‘Truly astonishing ... anyone who’s even slightly interested in our human origins should take a long, leisurely look through it’ – Focus

‘The most complete picture yet of the context of the images, from their likely ethnological origins to chemical analysis’ – Condé Nast Traveller

Genesis of the Pharaohs

Dramatic new discoveries that rewrite the origins of ancient Egypt

Toby Wilkinson

Who were the true ancestors of the pharaohs? Was Egypt really ‘the gift of the Nile’? Where, when and how ancient Egypt began have remained enduring mysteries – until now. Toby Wilkinson casts a radical new light on the beginnings of Egypt in this elegantly written book. His theory places the birth of pharaonic civilization between the Nile Valley and the Red Sea in the Eastern Desert, home to a stunning artistic legacy hidden for over 6,000 years, illuminated here in dozens of colour photographs and specially commissioned line drawings as well as a penetrating but pacy text.
