

Can you inspire and engage psychiatry trainees?

The BJPsych Bulletin is looking for an enthusiastic editor to run and champion Praxis, the journal's section for trainees. The section has gone from strength to strength under the leadership of the current editor who is stepping down at the end of their term, while remaining on the Editorial Board.

The role requires a proactive person with a vision, and involves commissioning articles, reviewing proposals, as well as identifying reviewers and making decisions on papers. We anticipate that a session a week will be required. The role would suit particularly well a higher trainee with a full special interest day to devote to it, but all applications will be considered, including job-share. Support will be available from the Publishing Team at the College.

The Trainees' Section editor will support the journal by becoming a member of the Editorial Board. They will be responsible for the trainees' section and will report to the Editor of BJPsych Bulletin, who has the final say over all content in the journal.

Job description

Available via the RCPsych website: <https://www.rcpsych.ac.uk/members/posts-for-members>
You can also email BJPBulletin@rcpsych.ac.uk

How to apply

Please email to BJPBulletin@rcpsych.ac.uk a 2-page CV and covering letter addressed to the Editor, Dr Norman Poole. Please explain in your covering letter why you are applying for the post and how you would handle the section.

Closing date

30 April 2021

Interview date

We are aiming to interview shortlisted candidates virtually on 5 May 2021 in the afternoon.

BJPsych Bulletin

EDITORIALS

- 73 Follow the money: how is medical school teaching funded?
Aileen O'Brien and Ania Korszun
- 76 The COVID-19 pandemic from an acute psychiatric perspective: a London psychiatric intensive care unit experience
Luke Skelton, Ria Pugh, Bethan Harries, Lucy Blake, Margaret Butler and Faisal Sethi
- 80 Are summer schools a way to improve recruitment in psychiatry?
Aileen O'Brien

ORIGINAL PAPER

- 81 Patients with young-onset dementia in an older people's mental health service
Michael Yeung, Katherine MacFarland, Vincent Mlilo, Nathan Dean and Benjamin R. Underwood

AGAINST THE STREAM

- 86 The case for cautious paternalism in the emergency management of patients with borderline personality disorder
Giles Newton-Howes

CULTURAL REFLECTIONS

- 89 Psychoanalysis in the treatment of autism: why is France a cultural outlier?
D. V. M. Bishop and Joel Swendsen

SPECIAL ARTICLES

- 93 The mental health of doctors during the COVID-19 pandemic
Niall Galbraith, David Boyda, Danielle McFeeters and Tariq Hassan
- 97 Electroconvulsive therapy for severe depression, psychosis and chorea in a patient with Huntington's disease: case report and review of the literature
Walied Mowafi and Jon Millard

- 105 Predicting short-term suicide risk: allowing for ongoing variation in severity of intent
Gethin Morgan

PRAXIS

- 109 When self-harm is about preventing harm: emergency management of obsessive-compulsive disorder and associated self-harm
Erika Palombini, Joel Richardson, Emma McAllister, David Veale and Alex B. Thomson

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

- 114 Perspectives of GCSE students attending a psychiatry summer school in south London
Clementine Wyke, Glori-Louise de Bernier, Chun Chiang Sin Fai Lam, Clare Holt, Sophie Butler, Anto Praveen Rajkumar Rajamani and Charlotte Wilson Jones

COLUMNS

- 120 Interview
Derek Bolton
- 122 Correspondence
- 125 Obituaries
Denise Assunta Coia
Donald West
- 128 Book Review
Building Children's Resilience in the Face of Parental Mental Illness: Conversations with Children, Parents and Professionals ed. Alan Cooklin and Gill Gorell Barnes

<https://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/bjpsych-bulletin>

Published by Cambridge University Press

ISSN: 2056-4694

Cover image

In this issue, Galbraith and colleagues (pp. 93-97) discuss the mental health of doctors during the COVID-19 pandemic, particularly how this crisis has placed additional pressure on doctors and on the healthcare system in general and how research shows that such pressure brings a greater risk of psychological distress for doctors.

Photo credit: ©istock.com/wildpixel