Statement of Purpose

The Canadian Journal of Law & Jurisprudence serves as a forum for the publication of scholarly writing in general and special jurisprudence and legal philosophy. In this regard it will publish articles that address the nature of law, the philosophical analysis or criticism of substantive and procedural doctrine, that explore the philosophical bases of constitutional law, that examine the form and nature of legal or judicial reasoning, that investigate issues concerning the ethical aspects of legal practice, and that study (from a philosophical perspective) concrete issues facing contemporary society.

Cover: The motto of this Journal is alis volat propriis. What this motto says is that we fly on our own wings. What it has meant was our being not only self-sustaining and self-publishing, but also going wide with regard to what we view as jurisprudentially attractive and worthwhile as philosophical discovery. The people at Cambridge University Press observed that CJLJ has been a successful journal in the field of legal philosophy and they wanted in on the flight. While the editorial body will remain unchanged, our prospects open and our wings will spread.

From Volume 28 the Canadian Journal of Law & Jurisprudence is published jointly by Cambridge University Press and the Faculty of Law, the University of Western Ontario.

Appreciation is expressed to SSHRC for the aid to scholarly journals we receive.

The journal is included in the Cambridge Journals Online service and can be found at <http://journals.cambridge.org/cjlj>.
