

New breakthroughs in the study of Christianity

Trajectories through Early Christianity

by JAMES M. ROBINSON and HELMUT KOESTER

A totally new approach to historical and biblical research is presented in this book. Robinson and Koester assert that traditional concepts of early Christian history do not readily accommodate new evidence. They focus on the movement, or "trajectories," of key ideas through early church history. A variety of texts are examined and recent archaeological discoveries brought into play. Those interested in the Bible and in methods of research will be stimulated by the ideas of these two prominent scholars. $9.95

The Sayings of Jesus in the Churches of Paul

by DAVID L. DUNGAN

"This is a sound and meaningful study. . . . At points Dungan has taken the guesswork out of our search for the early forms of the Jesus tradition," says Krister Stendahl. David Dungan carefully analyzes how Paul used specific sayings of Jesus to regulate the life of early congregations. He concludes that Paul stands squarely within the tradition that led to the Synoptic Gospels. Students of the Bible and early church will gain much insight into the debate about how Jesus' teachings relate to later times. $6.95

Jesus in His Time

edited by H. J. SCHULTZ

Willi Marxsen, Paul Winter, Bo Riecke, Hans Conzelmann, and other distinguished authors have contributed to this book. Writing for the general reader, these men cover fascinating aspects of Christianity's relationship to its setting: religious propaganda, legal problems, Herod and his successors, and much more. "An excellent survey of the political, social, and religious background of the New Testament. Highly recommended for the casual reader and student alike," says Raymond E. Brown. Excellent for collateral reading or for use as a beginning text. $3.75 paper

Orthodoxy and Heresy in Earliest Christianity

by WALTER BAUER

This book challenged the opinion that heretical groups were found only on the fringes of the orthodox church. Bauer's close study of Christianity in various parts of the Roman Empire leads him to conclude that the line between orthodoxy and heresy is far from clear. He maintains that orthodoxy as defined by the church councils triumphed at a relatively late date. Journal of Ecumenical Studies recently commented: "The forthcoming publication of the English translation of [this book] promises to be a most significant event." Now readily available, Bauer's work will be essential for students and specialists in New Testament, Christian origins, and church history. $12.50

recent and recommended

The Resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth

by WILLI MARXSEN $2.95 paper

The Covenant Formulary: In Old Testament, Jewish, and Early Christian Writings

by KLAUS BALTZER $12.00

The Gospel Tradition

Essays by HARALD RIESENFELD $8.50

at all bookstores

Fortress Press

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19129

The Anchor Bible

The Gospel According to John

Introduction, Translation and Notes

Raymond E. Brown S.S.

The first volume of Raymond Brown's commentary on John, covering chapters 1–12, has already been widely acclaimed. With the second volume the commentary on the Fourth Gospel is complete.

A long and important introduction deals with such questions as the present state of Johannine studies, the tradition behind the Fourth Gospel, unity and composition, Johannine theology, and language, text and format.

Raymond Brown provides a complete translation which is both accurate and contemporary. The translation is divided into sections, and each section is followed by detailed notes and more general comment.

A special feature is the appendices: they cover Johannine vocabulary, the 'Word', 'Signs and works', Ego eimi, and the paraclete. For ease of reference, volume II contains the translation of chapters 1–12 as an appendix. There is also an index of authors and an index of subjects to cover both volumes.

Volume I: John I–XII

Second edition £3.50/70s

Volume II: John XIII–XXI £3.50/70s

GEOFFREY CHAPMAN

18 High St., Wimbledon, London, S.W.19

CAMBRIDGE THEOLOGICAL JOURNALS

Scottish Journal of Theology

Edited by: T. F. Torrance and J. K. S. Reid

Quarterly – £2.50 ($8.50 in USA)

Religious Studies

Edited by: H. D. Lewis

Quarterly – £4.00 ($13.50 in USA)

Journal of Ecclesiastical History

Edited by: C. W. Dugmore

Quarterly – £5.00 ($15.50 in USA)

For further information please write to:

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

200 Euston Road, London NW1 2DB

32 East 57th Street, New York, N.Y.10022

