PREHISTORY PRESS

1705 Jefferson Street
Madison, Wisconsin 53711-2109
(608) 258-8454

Prehistory Press is a new publishing house specializing in data-oriented archaeological monographs. The press is a private concern that will make a contribution to archaeology by creating an international series concentrating on conference proceedings, symposia, site reports, significant dissertations, and methodological issues.

Manuscripts will be accepted from all time periods and geographic areas. Interdisciplinary contributors within the area of Quaternary Studies are encouraged to contact the press. In addition to English, articles in French, German, and Spanish that form part of a volume will be accepted. Manuscripts are now being solicited. All manuscripts will be reviewed.

Available in April, 1991, the first volume of the new series will be Maya Stone Tools: Selected Papers of the Second Conference on Maya Lithics, edited by Thomas R. Hester and Harry J. Shafer. Please call or write for more information.
