PRÉLUDES ET PIONNIERS

Les Précurseurs de la Croix-Rouge
1840-1860

Symposium on the Precursors of the Red Cross
Edited by Roger Durand and Jacques Meurant, in collaboration with Youssef Cassis

Did humanitarianism predate the Red Cross?

1840-1860: there were men, women and institutions sharing the same concerns as those which motivated Henry Dunant and the "Committee of Five":

- care for wounded soldiers
- permanent relief societies
- mutual international aid
- neutral status for the wounded and for medical staff
- protection of prisoners of war.

Founded in Geneva in 1863, the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement is now active the world over. Its roots, too, are universal. This is what historians and people working in the field set out to demonstrate during a three-day symposium.

The International Review of the Red Cross is the official publication of the International Committee of the Red Cross. It was first published in 1869 under the title "Bulletin international des Sociétés de secours aux militaires blessés", and then "Bulletin international des Sociétés de la Croix-Rouge".

The International Review of the Red Cross is a forum for reflection and comment and serves as a reference work on the mission and guiding principles of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement. It is also a specialized journal in the field of international humanitarian law and other aspects of humanitarian endeavour.

As a chronicle of the international activities of the Movement and a record of events, the International Review of the Red Cross is a constant source of information and maintains a link between the components of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement.

The International Review of the Red Cross is published every two months, in four main editions:

French: REVUE INTERNATIONALE DE LA CROIX-ROUGE (since October 1869)

English: INTERNATIONAL REVIEW OF THE RED CROSS (since April 1961)

Spanish: REVISTA INTERNACIONAL DE LA CRUZ ROJA (since January 1976)

Arabic: المجلة الدولية للصليب الأحمر

(since May-June 1988)

Selected articles from the main editions have also been published in German under the title Auszüge since January 1950

The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), together with the League of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies and the 147 recognized National Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, is one of the three components of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement.

An independent humanitarian institution, the ICRC is the founding body of the Red Cross. As a neutral intermediary in case of armed conflict or disturbances, it endeavours on its own initiative or on the basis of the Geneva Conventions to protect and assist the victims of international and civil wars and of internal troubles and tensions, thereby contributing to peace in the world.
