

Masterpieces Of Russian Literature

Edited by LUDMILLA B. TURKEVICH, Douglass College

Here is an outstanding selection of representative works in Russian prose and verse. This collection is arranged in chronological order, beginning with the medieval chronicles and ending with "early" Tolstoy. Short, lucid sketches precede each selection, introducing the author and the work and placing the selection in its proper sequence in the history of Russian literature. A special feature is the list of recordings and tapes (for use in language laboratories) available for the texts in this significant collection.

The Russian writers represented are:

Lomonosov
Derzhavin
Vonvizin
Radishchev
Karamzin
Zhukovsky

Griboedov
Pushkin
Belinski
Lermontov
Gogol
Tolstoy

Ready for Fall classes, approx. 750 pages

THE SOVIET CRUCIBLE, Second Edition

Edited by SAMUEL HENDEL Illus., 706 pp., text ed. $7.50

PHILIP E. MOSELY, Columbia University, says:

"I thought the first edition was a very fine and enlightening selection, and the comments excellent, but this one is even richer in substance."

RUSSIAN PROSE READER

Edited by NORMAN HENLEY Paper, 235 pp., $3.00

D. VAN NOSTRAND COMPANY, INC.

120 Alexander Street

Princeton, New Jersey

FROM THE EDITOR

Future Discussion sections will deal with:

December 1964 and March 1965

“The Problem of Social Stability in Urban Russia, 1905-1917”

Leopold Haimson

Commentaries: Arthur P. Mendel and Theodore H. Von Laue

Contributions in forthcoming issues include:

Horace W. Dewey, “Immunities in Old Russia”

Keith Hitchins, “Samuel Clain and the Rumanian Enlightenment in Transylvania”

Edward Allworth, “The Beginnings of the Modern Turkestanian Theater”

Immanuel C. Y. Hsu, “Russia’s Special Position in China during the Early Ch’ing Period”

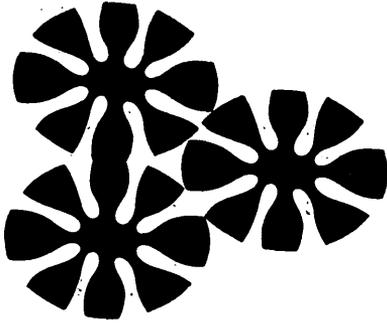

Alexandra Kalmykow, “A Sixteenth-Century Russian Envoy to France”

Elizabeth Beyerly, “The USSR and Eastern Europe: Research and Area Studies in Austria”

Boris Elkin, “The Kerensky Government and Its Fate”

Jesse J. Dossick, “Doctoral Dissertations on Russia and the Soviet Union Accepted by American, British, and Canadian Universities, 1960-1964”

The Slavic Review staff learned with sorrow of the death on September 12 of FREDERICK A. BEARE, of the University of Washington Printing Plant, who handled so expertly the difficult job of proofreading the Review. Mr. Beare, who had been a printer for forty-five years, possessed a wealth of printing knowledge and skill, with which he combined an understanding of the particular problems of scholarly publishing, careful attention to the many tedious details, and a generous amount of kindness, good sense, and good humor. Those who have shared the pleasures and rewards of a close collaboration in a complicated publishing venture with printers of considerable experience and integrity will appreciate the contribution that he made to the Review and will understand how highly his help and friendship were valued.

McGraw-Hill
Language
Texts

BASIC RUSSIAN

By REBECCA A. DOMAR, formerly of Columbia University. 516 pages, $6.95.

Introduces the student to the grammar of the Russian language and a basic vocabulary of about 1500 words. The approach is essentially grammatical, and narrative sections are used to acquaint the student with the spoken language.

A WORKBOOK FOR BASIC RUSSIAN

Includes the written exercises from BASIC RUSSIAN and additional exercises and drills, as well as a vocabulary test for each lesson, verb conjugation, and speech pattern oral drills. 240 pages, $3.95.

EXERCISES AND DRILLS IN RUSSIAN
to accompany
BASIC RUSSIAN

This recorded material covers the phonetics section and reading and pronunciation exercises of the first 14 chapters.

7 tapes (20 minutes each) 3 3/4 ips, $35.00.

3 records, 33 1/3 rpm, $15.00.

LANGUAGE TEACHING
A Scientific Approach

By ROBERT LADO, Dean, Institute of Languages and Linguistics, Georgetown University. 224 pages, $5.95 (cloth), $3.95 (soft cover).

A clear discussion of the theory and application of structural linguistics for the teacher of foreign languages and of English as a foreign language. This is the first book to incorporate a modern theory of second language learning.

LANGUAGE TESTING
The Construction and Use of Foreign Language Tests

By ROBERT LADO. 389 pages, $6.00. A complete treatment of all aspects of testing language skills. Discusses basic theories, treats in detail testing the production of sound segments, grammatical structures, and vocabulary, and analyzes the complex problem of testing the integrated skills: auditory and reading comprehension, speaking, writing, and translation.

TEACHING CHILDREN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

By MARY FINOCCHIARO, Hunter College of the City University of New York. 210 pages, $4.95.

Presents a plan for organizing, administering, and teaching a foreign language program for elementary school children. The nature of language and principles of language teaching and learning are thoroughly discussed.

Examination copies available on request

McGRAW-HILL BOOK COMPANY

330 West 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10036