THE TRINITY AND RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE OF MAN

"Man is more than 'man': he is a theandric mystery." In this study Professor Panikkar offers preliminary contributions to a discussion of the Trinity. Against the three characteristic forms of spirituality found in the majority of religions, Panikkar considers the theological problems of Trinitarianism.

The Enjoyment of Scripture

The Law, the Prophets, and the Writings

Samuel Sandmel

While many have written in vague praise of the Bible, Professor Sandmel provides not only a graceful summary of its contents, but also discusses the strengths and weaknesses in the writing. He proves that portions of the Bible are not only great literature, but literature that can still be read today with aesthetic pleasure. £4 OUP New York paper covers £1.75

A Christian America

Protestant Hopes and Historical Realities

Robert T. Handy

The Laws of Deuteronomy

Calum M. Carmichael

Professor Carmichael here proposes a convincing solution to a perplexing problem in biblical studies—the order and arrangement of the Deuteronomic laws. He shows that Deuteronomy is not a haphazard collection of fragments, but rather a carefully constructed coherent literary work with a definitive purpose. Through his analysis, many of the peculiar features of the code are made intelligible, for example, the relationship between the laws and earlier stories, sagas, and historical narratives. Opening up a new approach to the interpretation of the laws, this book makes an important contribution to the understanding of biblical material.

The Oxford Bible Atlas

Herbert G. May, R. W. Hamilton, and G. N. S. Hunt

The new edition of this established reference work takes full account of the many discoveries of recent years in biblical geography, history, and archaeology. There are 26 full-colour maps, several occupying more than one page, and these now include a large-scale double-page map of the archaeological sites of Palestine. The two plans of Jerusalem in O.T. and in N.T. times, with their accompanying texts, have been carefully revised in the light of the latest discoveries.

Photographs appear throughout the text sections and include a number specially taken in the Holy Land for this edition. The gazetteer is an index to every name in the maps and contains additional biblical, historical, and archaeological information. Second edition 26 maps 92 illustrations £2.75
