

LIBERTAS

EUROPEAN REVIEW

LIBERTAS is a quarterly review concerned with European and international issues. It analyses the theoretical basis of politics and comments on the most important themes and processes in the context of the political integration of Europe, paying particular attention to Europe's inevitable membership in the North Atlantic Community.

By means of academic and scientific studies, political and philosophical essays, interviews, comments and book reviews, it documents the latest developments in Europe as well as events world-wide, from a European point of view.

It examines significant regional and national developments as well as world developments vital to Europe's interests.

Contributors include political and economic scientists, historians, philosophers, politicians, lawyers and economists.

Annual subscription: Ecu 19,- or DM 40,-.

LIBERTAS founded by former Member of European Parliament, Hans-Jürgen Zahorka, also publishes a wide range of European books in English and German. English titles include:

Dr. Otmar Franz (Ed.): European Currency in the Making Vol. 1 and 2.

These document the discussion on the introduction of a single European currency, the Ecu and a European Central Bank.

Prof. Antony A. Alcock: Northern Ireland: Problems and Solutions.

An analysis of the problems in Northern Ireland by a recognised expert from the University of Coleraine.

Dr. Ursula Braun-Moser: European Transport Policy.

European integration and the Single Market also include a European transport policy. This topical book examines its reasons, objectives and possibilities - on rails, in the sea, in the air, in the roads.
