Mencius and Early Chinese Thought

KWONG-LOI SHUN

Throughout much of Chinese history, Mencius (372-289 B.C.) was considered the greatest Confucian thinker after Confucius himself. This study begins a reassessment of Mencius by examining his ethical thinking (how one should live) in relation to that of other early Chinese thinkers.

Patterns of Disengagement
The Practice and Portrayal of Reclusion in Early Medieval China

ALAN J. BERKOWITZ

While the customary path to achievement in traditional China was through service to the state, from the earliest times certain individuals had been acclaimed for repudiating an official career. This book traces the formulation and portrayal of the practice of reclusion in China to the sixth century, by which time reclusion had taken on its enduring character.

The Political Economy of South Korea

JOHN LIE

This is the most comprehensive and informative study of the extraordinary changes that transformed South Korea from one of the poorest and most agrarian countries in the world in the 1950s to one of the richest and most industrialized states by the late 1980s. It is based not only on information usually gathered by sociologists and political economists, but on popular culture, literature, and ethnography.

In Search of Chinese Democracy

Civil Opposition in Nationalist China, 1929–1949

Edmund S.K. Fung

Edmund Fung examines an important phase of development in China's long quest for democracy. The momentum for democracy, he contends, grew strongest between 1929 and 1949 through civil opposition to the one-party rule of the Guomindang. The Nationalist era contained the germs of a reformist, liberal order, the legacy of which can be seen in the pro-democracy movement of the post-Mao period.

Science and Civilisation in China

Vol. 6: Biology and Biological Technology: Part 6 Medicine

Nathan Sivin, Editor

The latest volume in Joseph Needham's magisterial revelation of China's premodern scientific and technological traditions introduces medicine. Five essays are included by Joseph Needham and Lu Gwei-djen, edited and expanded upon by the editor, Nathan Sivin. The essays offer broad and readable accounts of medicine in culture, including hygiene and preventive medicine, forensic medicine and immunology. Professor Sivin's extensive introduction discusses these essays, placing them in their historical and medical context, and surveys recent medical discoveries from China, Japan, Europe and the United States.

Labour Market Reform in China

Xin Meng

Labour Market Reform in China analyzes institutional changes in the Chinese labor market over the past twenty years, and offers evidence that further reform is necessary if China is to sustain its high growth rates. It investigates separately the impact of economic reform on the rural and urban labor markets and then considers their interaction. Consideration is given to employment and unemployment, wages and social security.

Factionalism in Chinese Communist Politics

Jing Huang

In this book, Jing Huang examines the role of factionalism in Chinese politics. His detailed knowledge of intra-Party politics offers a new understanding of still-disputed struggles behind the high walls of leadership in Zhongnanhai. Critiquing the predominant theories on leadership and decisionmaking, he explains that it is not power struggles that give rise to factionalism, but rather the existence of "factionalism that turns power into an overriding goal in CCP politics."

Violent Disputes over Property Rights in 18th-Century China

Thomas M. Buoye

Thomas Buoye examines the impact of large-scale economic change on social conflict in eighteenth-century China. He draws on a large number of documented cases of violent property disputes to recreate the social tensions fostered by the development of property rights, an unprecedented growing population, and the increasing strain on land and resources.

The Cambridge History of Japan

Volume 2: Heian Japan

Donald H. Shively and William H. McCullough, Editors

This volume provides the most comprehensive treatment of the Heian period, the golden age of the Japanese imperial court, in any Western language. From 794 to 1185, the Japanese emperor ruled over an elaborate government modeled on China's. Native Japanese elements blended with Chinese influences in religion and the courtly arts. The world's first novel was completed about 1020. In 1185 the elegant and peaceful world of the court was shattered by the struggle of the Taira and Minamoto warrior clans, who usurped real political power.

The first theoretical analysis of the Asian Financial Crisis—perhaps the single most important economic event of the 1990s—starts by presenting a factual and analytic overview of what happened.

It goes on to consider why crisis turned into collapse, speculative attacks, and contagion and finishes with a round table discussion of policy issues. The distinguished contributors are from organizations including IMF, the World Bank and the Bank for International Settlements.

Democratic Politics and Economic Reform in India

Rob Jenkins

Successive Indian governments have remained committed to market-oriented reform since its introduction in 1991. In a well-argued and controversial examination of the political dynamics that underlie that commitment, Jenkins challenges existing theories of the relationship between democracy and economic liberalization. He contends that while democracy and liberalization are no longer considered incompatible, the new thinking emphasizes the wholesome aspects of democracy, downplaying the temptations of populism and its reliance on obfuscatory tactics in defusing political resistance.

GANDHI'S BODY
SEX, DIET, AND THE POLITICS
OF NATIONALISM

Joseph S. Alter

Alter moves away from the usual focus on nonviolence, peace, and social reform and takes seriously what most scholars who have studied Gandhi tend to ignore: Gandhi's preoccupation with sex, his obsession with diet reform, and his vehement advocacy for naturopathy. He shows that a distinction cannot be made among Gandhi's concern with health, faith in nonviolence, and sociopolitical agenda.

This new, proficiency-oriented introductory Japanese program emphasizes practical communication, the development of all four language skills, student interaction, and cultural awareness.

- Hiragana (in Chapters 1–3 of Nakama 1) and katakana (in Chapters 4–6 of Nakama 1) are introduced through unique mnemonic devices that help students learn the characters. Ninety kanji characters are introduced in Chapters 7–12 of Nakama 1, and approximately 290 kanji are presented in Chapters 1–10 of Nakama 2, with stroke-by-stroke writing techniques.
- A series of specially created manga precede each chapter dialogue and serve as visual advanced organizers.
- Chapter dialogues present a lively, continuous story line that illustrates typical daily events in Japanese life and provide a realistic context in which to learn vocabulary and grammatical structures.
- Exercises progress from directed practice to a wide range of open-ended communicative activities that emphasize pair and group work.
- The Houghton Mifflin Japanese Web Site (college.hmco.com) provides additional materials for students and instructors, including links to relevant Internet sites and to a Japanese page co-developed by author Kazumi Hatasa that contains materials specifically created for use with Nakama.

La Revue Bibliographique de Sinologie identifie les principales tendances de la recherche. Elle présente un vaste choix des dernières parutions relatives à l'histoire, l'archéologie, les arts, la musique, les sciences du langage, la littérature, la philosophie, les religions, les sciences et les techniques : ouvrages et articles publiés en langues européennes, en chinois et en japonais.

Ce volume analyse 279 livres ainsi qu'une sélection de 255 articles tirés d'une centaine de périodiques.

Des synthèses d'orientation bibliographique abordent en outre des sujets originaux dans une perspective temporelle plus longue :

Michel Cartier, La recherche sinologique à Taiwan et la taiwanisation des études chinoises
Valerie Hansen, The Silk Road Project : Reuniting Turfan's Scattered Treasures
Thomas Kampen, East German China Studies from 1949 to 1990
Vincent Goossaert, Matériaux et recherches nouvelles sur les corporations chinoises urbaines traditionnelles (des Ming à 1949)

The Review of Bibliography in Sinology presents analyses of the most recently published books and articles in Chinese, Japanese and in European languages on all aspects of sinology : history, archaeology and the arts, music, linguistics, literature, philosophy, religion, and the history of science and techniques.

The present volume offers abstracts of 279 books and 255 articles published in one hundred periodicals.

In addition there are bibliographical surveys on particular subjects that take into account works published over longer periods of time :

Olivier Venture, Nouvelles sources pour l'histoire de la Chine ancienne : les publications de manuscrits depuis 1972
Anne Cheng, Un classique qui n'en finit pas de faire parler de lui : les "Entretiens" de Confucius. Un aperçu des traductions du XX^e siècle en langues européennes

THE CHINESE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG

Applications are invited for the following post:

Professor of History

(Ref. 00/077(446)/2) (closing date: November 11, 2000)

The Department of History offers both undergraduate and postgraduate degree programmes. In 1999-2000, the Department has developed an innovative and balanced undergraduate curriculum and is now looking for a Professor of History whose specialty lies in traditional Chinese history. Alternatively, scholars of established esteem with a focus on world history are also welcome. Applicants for the professorship should possess excellent academic qualifications, extensive university teaching and research experience, an outstanding publication record of scholarly works of international impact, a good background in academic administration; and have attained respectable status and developed extensive academic connections in mainland China and worldwide. In tune with the curriculum nature, proficiency in both Chinese and English will be an advantage. Applicants with lesser qualifications or experience may alternatively be considered for appointment at the grade of Reader (carrying the academic title of Professor) or Senior Lecturer (carrying the academic title of Associate Professor or Professor, as appropriate). Appointment will initially be made on fixed-term contract basis for up to three years, renewable subject to mutual agreement. The post will be tenable from the academic year 2000-2001.

Annual Salary and Fringe Benefits

Professor of History: Commencing HK$1,229,280

Reader: HK$898,440 - 1,193,580

Senior Lecturer: HK$861,180 - 1,156,860

(approx. exchange rate in July 2000: £1=HK$11.77; US$1 = HK$7.75)

Starting salary and grade will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Benefits include leave with full pay, medical and dental care, and where applicable housing benefit for eligible appointee (subject to the rules for the prevention of double housing benefits), and a contract-end gratuity and/or University contribution to retirement schemes (totalling up to 15% of basic salary).

Further information about the University and the general terms of service for teaching appointees is available on our homepage <<http://www.cuhk.edu.hk>>. A profile of the Department can be found at <<http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/his>>.

Application Procedure

INDONESIAN HERITAGE

The Indonesian Heritage Series is an illustrated encyclopedia

for general and student readers. Written by leading Indonesian and international experts, it covers a wealth of natural sciences, geography, history and art themes. It is the first comprehensive encyclopedia to embrace the rich natural and cultural heritage of the entire Indonesian Archipelago from Sumatra to Irian Jaya. One of the world's fastest-changing and most populous nations, Indonesia is home to a rich and resilient civilisation, in a natural setting of astonishing diversity. Ten volumes, each taking a separate subject, present material in an attractive and accessible way. Great emphasis is placed on visual material—ranging from old prints and documents to striking photographs and newly commissioned paintings and drawings, maps and diagrams. Every volume is illustrated in full colour throughout, and includes a general introduction, glossary, bibliography and index.

to be produced on this, one of Southeast Asia's most vibrant developing countries. Published in a five volume series, each volume explores a single subject area, bringing to life details of Malaysia's history, politics, economics, geography, natural history and culture. Great emphasis is placed on the visual content of the series, which is illustrated in full colour throughout. Each volume features photographs, archive material, and artwork, as well as maps and charts, which will help bring to life the thematic double-page spreads which form the Encyclopedia's core structure. In addition, each volume features a general introduction, glossary, bibliography and index.

SACHIKO MURATA

Foreword by Tu Weiming

With a New Translation of Jāmi's Lawā'ih
from the Persian by William C. Chittick

The first study in English of Islamic thought in China, this book shows that this tradition was informed by both Sufism and Neo-Confucianism. Translations of two classic works are included.

"This is a remarkable book, painstakingly set in its historical and intellectual context. There is a brilliance reflected in both the introduction and the translation. We are indebted to Sachiko Murata for her fine work!" — Mary Evelyn Tucker, author of Moral and Spiritual Cultivation in Japanese Neo-Confucianism: The Life and Thought of Kaibara Ekken (1630–1714)

IMAGINING VIETNAM AND AMERICA

The Making of Postcolonial Vietnam, 1919–1950

MARK PHILIP BRADLEY

Foreword by John Lewis Gaddis

"This account, which draws on Vietnamese, French, British, and American archives, transforms our understanding not only of Vietnam and the United States, but of the world in which colonized peoples attempted to become modern postcolonial states." —Marilyn B. Young, author of The Vietnam Wars, 1945–1990

The Life and Career of Hung
Ch'eng-ch'ou (1593–1665):
Public Service in a Time of Dynastic Change

by
Chen-main Wang

NOW AVAILABLE!

This book focuses upon the controversial character and activities of Hung Ch'eng-ch'ou, who first won distinction for his role in suppressing indigenous peasant armies in northwestern China. After being given command of the vital northeastern frontier military district, Hung was captured by the Manchu—and eventually joined his captors to assist them in conquering China and establishing the new Ch'ing dynasty. Although Hung has traditionally symbolized treachery and disloyalty, this book adopts a quite different focus. It brings mid-seventeenth century China to life in new ways, deepening our sense of the historical complexity of the era.

"Without sentimentalizing Hung Ch'eng-ch'ou, [the author] nonetheless forces us to see him as a quite understandable figure, one whose choice to serve the conqueror . . . was not without its principled underpinnings, and whose service was of decisive impact on the success of the Manchu conquest. In short, Hung can no longer be seen as a cardboard figure symbolizing political treachery, but must be recognized as a complex human of great capacities, striving and brilliantly succeeding in doing a job that he felt must be done."

CHINA'S ECONOMIC REFORM
An Experiment in Pragmatic Socialism
By Raphael Shen

Dismantling a dysfunctional system and replacing it with a effective new one involving 1.2 billion people is a daunting task. China's socialist government began the task 20 years ago, combining tight political controls with liberalizing economic measures. Structural rigidities and functional inefficiencies of the past have yielded to more flexible and dynamic entrepreneurial initiatives of the present. China is on the threshold of developmental success.

Model, Myth or Miracle? Reassessing the Role of Governments in the East Asian Experience

Until recently, the East Asian experience was hailed as a miracle and a model of successful development. Now it is being called a myth and a bad example that should not be emulated by other developing countries. This book takes stock of the lessons from two decades of successful economic performance in East Asian countries and the new lessons that have arisen from the recent economic crisis. Observations from East Asia are divided into those relating to economic policies and those relating to their institutional underpinnings. The book concludes with updated analysis aimed at helping other countries learn from the East Asian experience.
