

October
1995

Special feature

Rebecca Oxford and Neil Anderson on a crosscultural view of learning styles

language teaching

The international abstracting journal for language teachers and applied linguists

Cambridge University Press

language teaching

The international abstracting journal for language teachers and applied linguists

(formerly Language Teaching and Linguistics: Abstracts)

Compiler and Editor

Valerie Kinsella

Associate Editor

Jenny Pugsley, *Professional Services,
The British Council, Manchester*

Editorial Board

C. J. Brumfit, University of Southampton

Joseph Sheils, DECS, Council of Europe, Strasbourg

R. M. Johnstone, University of Stirling

John Trim, Cambridge

Alan Mountford, The British Council, Manchester

Philippa Wright, Centre for Information on Language Teaching and Research

Editorial correspondence:

Mrs Valerie Kinsella, 63 Long Ashton Road,
Long Ashton, Bristol BS18 9HW, UK

Published with the support of

The Centre for Information on Language Teaching & Research (CILT)
20 Bedfordbury
London WC2N 4LB, UK
Library open 10.00–17.00, Mon–Tues and Thurs–Fri; 10.00–20.00, Wed;
10.00–13.00, Sat.
0171 379 5110

and The British Council Medlock Street
Manchester M15 4PR, UK
0161-957 7000

© Cambridge University Press 1995

Aims and features language teaching is a compact digest of current thinking on the theoretical and practical aspects of learning and teaching languages. It aims to help people concerned with the subject to keep up to date with the latest findings with minimum expenditure of time and money. It aims to encourage cross-fertilisation of ideas between those concerned with the teaching of different foreign languages (e.g. French, German, English) as well as between practising teachers, applied linguists and educational researchers.

In addition to about 130 abstracts in English in each issue, there is a specially commissioned state-of-the-art survey article on an important aspect of language learning or teaching, which features a full bibliography.

There are also brief annotations of recent publications, together with a list of books received, information on where to find substantial bibliographies on particular topics, and details of research projects in various countries.

ISSN 0261-4448