Publication Policy

The American Bar Foundation is an independent research institute committed to socio-legal research. Consistent with its mandate to create and disseminate knowledge about law, the legal profession, and legal institutions, Law and Social Inquiry: Journal of the American Bar Foundation invites the submission of articles that make original contributions to understanding of socio-legal processes. Law and Social Inquiry publishes both empirical and theoretical studies from a variety of disciplinary perspectives. The analyses, conclusions, and opinions are those of the authors alone.

Manuscript Evaluation: Law and Social Inquiry is a refereed journal. Manuscripts that the Editors deem appropriate for the journal are evaluated by two or more reviewers with expertise in the relevant subject matter and methodology. Manuscripts produced by ABF research fellows are evaluated by the same process as outside manuscripts and are not accorded priority in publication.

Submission of Manuscripts: Manuscripts submitted to Law and Social Inquiry should be typed double-spaced and be accompanied by an abstract of not more than 150 words. The review process is anonymous; all identifying information should appear only on a separate cover sheet and not in the body of the manuscript.

Law and Social Inquiry does not accept multiply submitted articles. The Editors endeavor to make decisions promptly, usually about two months after submission.

Editing of Manuscripts: All manuscripts accepted for publication are edited for style by professional copyeditors in consultation with the author. Copyeditors do not check citations. Authors usually see both edited manuscripts and proofs.

Reprints to Authors: Without charge, we provide authors with 25 reprints of their article or essay or of the Review Symposium in which the essay appears. Additional reprints may be ordered at author's expense. Article authors receive 3 copies of the issue in which their contribution appears; review essay and book review authors receive 1 copy.

Republication Rights: The Foundation normally permits authors to republish or use their manuscripts after publication, but Law and Social Inquiry has the right to first publication of edited manuscripts. The journal retains the right to republish manuscripts as reprints or as part of any reproduction of the issue or volume in which they appear, by any means, including without limit electronic means or microfilm.

Comments and Responses: Comments on or responses to articles or review essays in the form of brief, scholarly statements will be published at the discretion of the Editors or Review Section Editor.

Announcement from the Editor

I am pleased to announce that the University of Chicago Press will become the publisher of Law and Social Inquiry beginning with Volume 15, Number 1, Winter 1990. Production, subscription fulfillment, and marketing will become the responsibility of the Press in consultation with the Editors.

Editorial policy and content of the Journal will remain unchanged.

The University of Chicago Press is renowned for the distinguished journals it publishes in law and social science. A partnership with the Press represents a major advance in our long-term effort to provide better service to our subscribers and to increase visibility in academic and professional circles generally.
