Introducing Phineas Prism

Phineas Prism has just joined us as an articled clerk after doing his National Service in the R.A.F. On his first day we said to him:

"Prism, we have a divorced wife who refuses to get out of her former husband's house. Can you dig up the recent cases on the subject?"

"Haven't a clue, sir," said Prism.

"No lawyer can afford to say that," we said. "You must find out."

In a surprisingly short time, considering his inexperience, Prism dumped a pile of reports and journals on our desk.

"Are you sure that's everything?" we asked.

"Absolutely."

"What makes you so sure?"

"It was a piece of cake," said Prism. "Somebody put me on to CURRENT LAW. You know, that really is a bang-on job. Even I can find the latest gen. I've not only got you all the cases, but an article on 'The Matrimonial Home' from The Conveyancer. CURRENT LAW has certainly got all the clues."

We agreed that he had something there.

A card to the publisher will bring you a specimen part and full details of the CURRENT LAW Service
